Carter pledges to give government back to people

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter today returns to Georgia where his giant-killer campaign began and where he'll map plans to capture the White House in the Nov. 2 election.

Carter and the other half of his Blue-Gray ticket, Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, closed out the 1976 Democratic National Convention with tandem acceptance speeches Thursday night that proclaimed "a new mood in America."

Before leaving New York, where delegates approved his nomination, stamped a platform drawn to his taste and endorsed his running mate with more harmony than Democrats have seen in a decade, Carter scheduled his first post-convention strategy session and meetings with Democratic National Committee leaders.

"Nineteen seventy-six will not be a year of politics as usual," Carter told the convention. "It is a year of concern, and of quiet and sober reassessment of our nation's character and purpose — a year when voters have already confounded the political experts.

"It can be a year of inspiration and hope. And I guarantee you it will be the year when we give the government of this country back to the people of this country."

Carter opened his speech with the line which mostly brought chuckles when he started using it 19 months ago, "My name is Jimmy Carter, and I'm running for president."

Poking fun at the Republican division in the nomination race between President Ford and Ronald Reagan, Carter predicted a victory with his relatively youthful Democratic ticket, "no matter which Republican party they decide to send against me."

"We are a new generation of leadership," Mondale said. "We are strong. We are experienced. And we're ready."

Carter is 51, Mondale, 48.

The 1976 Democratic National Convention ended with the Rev. Martin Luther King, father of the slain civil rights leader, declaring, "Surely the Lord sent Jimmy Carter to come on out and bring America back where she belongs."

After today's meetings here, the Carter caravan was to head for the family home at Plains, Ga.

As he introduced Mondale as his choice for running mate, Carter said, "The first duty that Sen. Mondale will have will be to help win the election in the fall."

Carter said Mondale and his staff would be asked "to put forward their own proposal about what areas of the nation he should visit most, what particular states he would find most compatible with his own campaigning, and to share responsibilities for major events."

Carter said there would be staff meetings following up today's meeting between the two candidates. Presumably, the bulk of the planning will be done in Plains, where Carter is expected to spend most of his time until the campaign against the Republican nominee begins in early September.

The Carter campaign headquarters will remain in Atlanta in keeping with his non-Washington approach to the election. Washington operations will center on the Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Aides said party chairman Robert Strauss, the man generally credited with patching up the party after divisive conventions and campaigns torn by the Vietnam war in 1968 and internal party changes in 1972, would coordinate national connections.

Carter's speech was perhaps the most comprehensive display yet of his stands on the major political issues, although it generally reflected the party platform which his delegates were instrumental in writing.

Carter said he wanted jobs for all who were able to work, comprehensive tax reform, universal voter registration, a national health program, an end to racial and sex discrimination, firm law enforcement and an end to "the double standard of justice in America.

"I see no reason why big shot crooks should go free while the poor ones go to jail," Carter said.

Carter told reporters later he could accomplish his goals within four years of moving into the White House.

While Carter denounced "the disgrace of Watergate," he did not mention personalities. But Mondale went further by bringing up President Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon for Watergate offenses.

"We have just lived through the worst political scandal in American history and are now led by a President who pardoned the person who did it," Mondale said.

On foreign policy, Carter's speech was reminiscent of John F. Kennedy's inaugural address 15 years ago. He called for "a sustained architectural effort to shape an international framework of peace within which our own ideals gradually can become a global reality."

Meet the city manager

Sikeston's public safety program

On July 9, City Manager Charles Church announced the appointment of Kenneth Francis, 31, police chief of Trenton, as the city's first public safety director.

The public safety program will combine duties of the police and fire departments with the aim of providing improved fire protection for the city.

By training and equipping police officers to fight fires, the city will be gaining a large number of additional fire protection personnel with little additional cost.

It will be up to Francis to initiate the program and develop policies necessary for the program to succeed.

Church said he expects the public safety program to be in full operation within one year to 18 months.

The following questions and answers were edited from a press interview with Church on Thursday afternoon.

It is the first of a continuing series of interviews Church will hold with members of the local press. Each of the interviews will center around one topic.

Q. What criteria did you use to pick Francis and why was someone from out of town chosen for the position?

A. What was important to me in the selection process, and also in discussions with the interview board, was leadership ability and knowledge of police and fire administration.

In the very early stages there was one local person whom I considered extremely qualified for the position. He was offered the position and at that time turned it down. My preference would have been to appoint a local person, but the review process ended with it being an out of town person.

Q. How are we justifying a $15,0000 a year salary?

A. City government is no different than private employment. The employer has to pay what the law of supply and demand requires to retain and keep qualified people. And, if a city government or business does not remain competetive, it loses its employes to other agencies or employers.

For that reason the salary range was set at $15,000, as being competitive with what other communities are paying to keep good administrators in the police and fire area.

One-half of the salary of the public safety director is being paid by a grant from the state of Missouri called the Intergovernmental Personnel Act program. One-half the director's salary and benefit benefits are paid by the program possibly up to three years.

The costs of implementing the program, such as a training, travel, instructors coming to Sikeston for the training, the necessary fire equipment (air packs and turnout gear), are all being paid 50 per cent by this grant.

Q. The public safety programs are not new, but if they are such a good idea, why are only four communities using public safety directors?

A. Public safety, like any other program is not a canned program. It is not suitable for every community. Communities with strong firefighter unions oppose it, because they fear it is an encroachment on their authority and jurisdiction.

It just depends if a community is ready, and I think Sikeston is fairly receptive to it because we have a lack of fire manpower. Communities with a large fire department really don't have a need to go to it and they probably get a resistance to the change because they have, for example, 30 firemen.

Where you only have 10 firemen, you need additional personnel, and it becomes more attractive because it is a much cheaper way of providing additional personnel than hiring 20 additional firemen.

Q. Cape Girardeau looked at this concept three or four years ago and the reason given by its leaders for not adopting it was that it would be an administrative nightmare. They said there was no way you could put those two diverse groups together into one group. How do you counter these objections?

A. Sikeston is in a situation much different than Cape Girardeau. Cape has a full-time paid fire department with fully manned stations. Their police department is of adequate size.

Sikeston has a police department which is slightly above national standard per capita (policemen per thousand population).

We're a little heavy on one side and weak on the other and it (public safety program) provides a balance.

I think the question is "are the duties of a policeman and a fireman compatible?" They are both providing protection for life and property.

The patrolman, while he is on patrol, has time that is available for other duties and if he is in a patrol situation and we have a fire, then he can assist at no additional cost to the city.

Q. Have the programs in other communities in the state been looked at to see how well they are operating?

A. Yes. The other communities are Mexico, Gladstone and Maryville. Mexico's program has gone extremely well, as has Gladstones. Maryville's program has not gone as well. Part of the problem there has been police manpower and originally they had a public safety ydirector who was extremely capable. He died after a year and a half and they have not been able to find a suitable replacement.

Their program is still going, but is not as strong as the others.

The other community is Des Peres, which is doing extremely well with its program.

Q. Were their public safety programs set up for the same reasons as Sikeston's?

A. Yes. Des Peres has another dimension in that the city also provides ambulance service through the public safety program.

Q. Is the city going to notice any savings or will the residents notice any difference in the type of protection they receive?

A. The changes that will be physically noticeable in the community will be quicker response in terms of initial manpower under the program. The police officers are generally closer to a fire scene than the fire station. They will provide additional manpower trained to respond in fire situations.

Busload of children apparently kidnaped

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-six children and the driver of their school bus who vanished on their way home from a swimming outing apparently are the victims of a mass kidnaping, the Madera County sheriff said today.

Deputies and police searched the San Joaquin Valley farmland through a windy, rainy night split by lightning and thunder for some clue to the whereabouts of the children, who ranged in age from 5 to 15.

The bus in which the children had been riding was found in a dry canal Thursday night.

"It appears to be an abduction," Sheriff Ed Bates told reporters. "We are waiting to be contacted."

Bates said his investigators found two sets of tracks superimposed on the bus tracks, suggesting that an abduction "would have to be planned, it seems to me." The tracks showed that "somebody left the area after the bus was parked."

The bus, which was to have returned the children from the Chowchilla fairgrounds, was found abandoned in a dry canal during a search from the air. It was hdden in a heavy stand of bamboo in the flat farmland about 35 miles northwest of Fresno.

The sheriff said he couldn't "think of any other possibility" but a kidnaping. "There's no blood, no evidence of foul play at the bus. I'm at a loss for words about this one. I absolutely can't figure it. We can't find anybody who has a motive."

Bates said the FBI has been called in.

The children are students at the Dairyland Unified School, which school district secretary Nita Hansen described as "just a little country school."

She said the bus driver, 55-year-old Frank Edward Ray Jr., was "very reliable" and had been driving for the school for 28 years.

"You couldn't ask for a nicer guy," Mrs. Hansen said. "He was born and raised here."

Sheriff Bates, who set up a command post at the Chowchilla Police Department, speculated that there were five possibilities: a "deranged guy" who had kidnaped the entire group; a "personal revenge, somebody who wants to make the parents suffer;" a kidnaping "for money;" a "terrorist" plot; or "some older kid on the bus took command by force."

Shortly before dawn Bates discarded as a clue reports that a white van seen the last two days near where the bus lets children off might be involved in the disappearance. The vehicle turned out to be a "dental van" which has been assigned to the area, he said.

The sheriff's office said it received calls from anxious parents beginning about 4:15 p.m. Thursday. At that time, the bus was two hours overdue.

Economy better than expected, Ford says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration said today that the economy will perform better than originally expected during 1976, providing Americans with about 379,000 more jobs and diminishing the erosion of inflation on peoples' buying power.

"The President believes his economic policies are the major reasons for this improvement," said White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

Revised administration projections on the nation's unemployment, inflation and production capacity must be sent to Congress later this month under the new budget-making procedures.

The President's top economic and budget advisers released their projections at a briefing. They attributed the estimates of the stronger-than-expected economic performance to developments which already have taken place.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said a crucial factor in the improved econmic picture has been greater confidence by consumers and businessmen. Greenspan said the confidence has been gaining even faster than expected and has been translated into faster economic growth.

Nessen said the President is determined to stick to his economic program and get the budget back into balance by 1979, if posible.

Contract awarded to clean out ditch

BLOOMFIELD--The Stoddard County Court this week awarded Young & Fowler Escavating Co. of Warrenton the contract to clean out a three-mile stretch of ditch in the northern part of the county.

The Warrenton firm submitted the lowest bid--$8,205 total--the only one received that was not from a business in the area.

The next lowest bid was $18,250, submitted by Lemons Gravel Co. of Dexter, which was more than $10,000 higher than the Warrenton firm's offer.

Other bids submitted included: Kinder Construction Co. of Dexter $19,496; William Morris Hampton of Dexter $20,461; and Hessling Bros. Drainage Co. of Dexter, $22,400.

The contract was awarded this week after bids were opened Monday by the court, but it will not become final until the company furnishes a 100 per cent performance bond.

In a letter to the company, County Clerk John Marvin Capps told the firm the bond would be needed and that after the contract has been completed, it would have 90 days to finish the work.

Cost of the project was originally estimated at about $30,000.

Whatever the cost, the court said it will be divided among landowners, based on the assessed benefits provided to each.

The stretch actually involves two ditches--Drainage Ditches No. 13 and 33 which run into each other.

The court decided to ask for bids on the work June 3 after a public hearing in which at least one person objected to the work being done.

Complaints were stilled, however, when it was pointed out that landowners who would get no benefit out of the work might not have to pay for the work.

Whether or not to undertake the project has been a matter of controversy for several years. As a consequence, the decision had been a long time in coming.

Most of the cost will be to clear timber from the ditch and along the bank. The last time the ditches were cleared was in 1958 when only part of the stretch was completed.

Landowners may pay for the work in one lump sum or may pay it over a five-year period.

Children with firecrackers burn shed

Firemen were called at 8:40 p.m. Thursday to the Jerry McMackins residence, 925 Tanner, where a fire destroyed a shed. Cause of the fire was listed as children playing with firecrackers.

Sikeston firemen were also called at 9:32 p.m. to assist the Morehouse Fire Depaartment with a farm shed fire at the Herman Smith Farm, three-quarters of a mile east of Birds Corner. The Morehouse Firemen had been called to the blaze about 8:30 p.m., which destroyed the shed. A truck which was parked in the shed was destroyed when the gas tank exploded.

At 1 p.m. firemen were called to the city garage when a pile of lumber caught fire from a spark from a welding torch being used to cut up an abandoned vehicle.

Stolen money is recovered

NEW MADRID--Nearly all of $170 that was stolen about 5 a.m. Thursday in the Mamie Williams home in Howardville has been recovered according to New Madrid County Deputy Sheriff Johnny Martin.

An 18-year-old Howardville man, Leon Lee, has been charged in New Madrid County Magistrate Court with stealing over $50.

Lee, who allegedly entered the house through an unlocked door while the family was sleeping, bought a bus ticket to Chicago and was arrested later Thursday in Sikeston by police.

County Clerk office open on Saturdays

BENTON--Scott County Clerk, Bob Kielhofner reports his office will be open the next three Saturdays for persons wishing to cast absentee ballots in the Aug. 3 primary election.

Kielhofner said persons wishing to cast absentee ballots may vote at his office between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday or from 8:30 a.m. to noon for the next three Saturdays, July 17, 24 and 31.

Anyone unable to go to his office in person may request an absentee ballot by mail, he added. Persons wishing to have an absentee ballot sent in the mail must write to the Scott County clerk in Benton before July 30, and must state their preference of a Democrat or Republican ballot. An absentee ballot will then be sent by registered mail and must be returned to his office no later than Aug. 2, Kielhofner said.

At present, Kielhofner said 195 absentee ballots have been issued for military personnel and civilians, with 56 having been completed.

Traveler's suitcase looted

Darrel Hampton of Biggers, Ark., told police that his shaving case and electric razor were taken from his suitcase early today.

Hampton told police he set the suitcase on the ground outside Kellett's Service Station about midnight and went inside the station. When he came out about 45 minutes later the suitcase was open and the items were gone.

He said the shaving case and razor were worth $110.

Mrs. Garner found dead in her home

Scott County authorities are investigating the death of Wanda Sue Garner, 38, of Route Four, who was found dead in her home shortly after noon Thursday by her husband, Art Garner.

Mrs. Garner was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore ordered a coroner's jury be impaneled to view the body in case an autopsy revealed any chance of foul play.

An autopsy was performed after permission was granted by Garner. Investigation is still pending.

Moore said there is nothing to indicate foul play at this time.

O'Guinn Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements which are incomplete.

Mondale has Missouri ties

FREDERICKTON, Mo. (AP) — The Rev. Lester Mondale says its hard for him to believe that his kid brother has a shot at being the vice president of the United States.

"It does seem very unreal to me at this moment that somebody from our Methodist farmer family should be vice president," Rev. Mondale said Thursday after receiving the news that Walter F. Mondale had received the Democratic nomination as Jimmy Carter's running mate.

"I came in from sawing wood to watch Mr. Carter announce his choice," said Mondale. "We didn't know, of course, that it would be Fritz, but we had high hopes."

Rev. Mondale, 72, actually a half brother of the senator from Minnesota, called Carter's selection "logical" and said Walter Mondale would be a good man to have in the vice presidency.

"Fritz, like the rest of us, imbibed his philosophy of life from Dad (a Methodist minister), who had a passion for social justice. Fritz combines practicality with idealism. He evaluates people by how they treat other people."

Rev. Mondale, who calls himself "the hillbilly of the family," retired from the Unitarian ministry in 1962 and now lives in a log cabin he built himself on an 80-acre tract near here.

"Our father had two families," Rev. Mondale said. "Three sons and an adopted daughter by his first wife, who was my mother. After her death, Dad remarried and had three more sons, one of whom was Fritz.

"I'm the oldest of the family—old enough to be his father."

Will the Rev. Mondale and his wife Rosemary, 59, campaign for Mondale as they have in the past?

"I think we're gonna keep our noses out of it," he said.

"I don't know what's going to happen to me now. My life may not be my own. This is more me. My identity is out here in these hills. In 1972 Fritz made an ironical remark about my being his hillbilly helper. So I told him that if he ever runs for president, I'll have his log cabin ready for him."

PINCH BOTTOM PROGRESS

An estimated 25 per cent of the food the United States sends overseas each year is lost during shipment, or to rodents, insects and spoilage after apprival. Vast quantities of grains produced in chronically starvation-threatened countries like India and Bangladesh are similarly lost because of poor storage.

Now American packaging ingenuity is helping to turn the tide in this aspect of the battle against world hunger in the form of tough, drab brown shipping backs with the improbable name of Pinch Bottom. Developed by St. Regis Paper Co. in concert with the State Department's Agency for International Development, the bags carried 300,000 tons of food overseas last year and dramatically reduced losses to pets, punctures and rough handling.

The Pinch Bottom bag is a composite of kraft paper and plastic, treated with mold inhibitor and insect repellent on the inside and sealed with hot-melt adhesive seals at both ends "to keep what's inside in and what's outside out," says a St. Regis official.

Unlike traditional sewn bags, Pinch Bottom bags frequently remain in distribution channels six months or more, sometimes sit in the rain for weeks or are stacked in the open in jungles and still resist insects moisture and rot.

TEEN-AGE TURNABOUT

The "Old-fashioned" teenager is making a comeback, say school officials interviewed by UPI in California. Interest in traditional activites like pep clubs and student elections is on the upswing. The appeal of the "counter culture" is fading. Boys are wearing lettermen's jackets again, and girls are wearing dresses, at least for proms.

"We came out of the rebellious '60s, through the sullen early '70s, and now we're back to the old spirit," says one principal.

"They (students) are still extremely casual," says another, "but the wild hairdos, the unspeakable jeans -- they're gone."

One reason behind the trend, the officials believe, is the current nostalgia for the 1950s and early 1960s, which to today's teenagers seem to represent an idyllic, happier time -- and certainly was, compared to the Vietnam-era strife they grew up in.

This is all welcome new, but we wonder. Nostalgia fads come and go in cycles, like everything else, and what one generation would not want to live through again may look glamorous to the next. Will school officials of the 1980s be faced with the return of the scroungy and rebellious teenager of the 1960s?

Crackdown on white collar crime

With so much in the news about corruption in business and government-from the short-weighing of grain shipments to the lavishing of goodies on officials to, most recently, the sale of inferior meat to the Army at outlandish prices-it is encouraging in a way to learn that the Soviets are not without similar scandals.

That they are not, after nearly six decades of totalitarian rule over the lives of the Russian people, suggests at least that the fault lies not in a country's political or economic system but in just plain old human nature.

According to "Literaturnaya Gazeta" (The Literary Gazette), 13 Soviet officials have been convicted of fleecing the state of some 365,000 rubles-about $500,000-to build a "disgusting dolece vita" hideaway on the Volga, replete with frescos, marbles, plush carpets, free-running vodka and sexually compliant "hostesses."

The difference between this and most scandals in this country, however, is what the Soviets did about it: They rapped the officials with prison terms of up to 15 years.

The Soviets, of course, have always treated economic crimes-what we lump in the broad category of "white collar "crimes-more harshly than crimes of violence. But there are signs that our tendency to view such things as embezzlement, fraud and illegal business practices as different from ordinary crimes, and to punish offenders more leniently, may be changing.

According to a special report on "White-Collar Justice" by the Bureau of National Affairs, judges and prosecutors are placing a new emphasis on white-collar crime- "a silent, pernicious class of crimes that robs the American public of an estimated $40 billion annually," or 200 times the amount stolen by all the bank robbers in this county in one year, says the bureau, a Washington, D.C.-based private organization.

In a three-month study, the bureau interviewed judges, prison inmates, prosecutors, penologists and other experts in seven cities and found that "throughout the nation, prosecutors are demanding - and judges are delivering-stiff prison terms for businessmen and executives who use a pen, instead of a gun, to rob the public."

In its fiscal 1975 report, for example, the FBI reported an increase of 25 per cent in investigations of white-collar crimes over fiscal 1971. There were 2,247 convictions in 1975, nearly 15 per cent more than the previous year. Even so, some prosecutors claim the FBI should be doing much more.

The stepped-up attack on white-collar crime has, in fact, underscored the problems facing prosecutors, including manpower shortgags, allegedly soft-sentencing judges and the very complexity of consumer fraud and antitrust cases.

The bureau also found a great deal of disagreement among people in the justice system about what kind of punishment, and how much of it, should be meted out to white-collar offenders. "We really don't know," said one judge, "whether it's the length of the sentence that the deterrent effect. I suspect a greater deterrent effect is the certainty of prison sentence, and the speed with which it's imposed, rather than its length."

While it is getting tougher to make a dishonest dollar, the report concludes, prosecutors and judges still face significant problems in their struggle against white-collar crime. They "must fight an invisible enemy on a battleground where dollars, not lives are lost" and where it is not always easy to distinguish friend from foe.

Not the least of these problems may be the attitude of some white-collar offenders themselves. The bureau quotes one of them, a former senior State Department official convicted of bribing a tax auditor, as saying, "I don't consider myself a criminal. I couldn't live with myself if I did."

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: "There is both good news and bad news. The good news is that plagues shall smite your Egyptian oppressors. The Nile shall be turned to blood, and frogs and locusts whall cover the fields, and gnats and flies shall infest the Pharoah's people and their cattle shall die and rot in the pastures, and hail and darkness shall visit punishment upon the land of Egypt! Then will I lead the children of Israel forth, parting the waters of the Red Sea so that they may cross, and thereafter strewing the sesert with manna so that they may eat."

And Moses said, "O Lord, that's wonderful! But tell me, what's the bad news?"

And the Lord God replied, "It will be up to you, Moses, to write the environmental-impact statement."

Juvenile Delinquency?

Delinquency of our young is a popular topic of conversation. "They have no respect for authority," we hear. "How can we teach them?"

Franklin noted: "None preaches better than the ant, and she says nothing." Action is the loudest speaker. It is better to show than to tell. A good example is better than millions of words. Alexander received more bravery of mind by the pattern of Achilles than by having the definition of fortitude.

It isn't the cry of the wild duck, but its flight, that leads the flock to fly and follow. The strongest arguments is: "I have seen it with my own eyes."

Let's stop talking and start showing. Disrespect for authority manifests itself in breaking minor traffic laws, in "stretching the truth" in conversation, in mis-leading advertising-in a hundred minor actions which we may consider unimportant but which are demonstrations to our young.

Our youth cry: "Don't tell us, show us!"

Delinquent children? Or delinquent parents?

Wilipower

Every young man ambitious to succeed must first cultivate will power, for without willpower he will never triumph over all the obstacles and difficulties he is sure to encounter in the pursuit of his goal. Real success is akin to willpower in that it lies in the mind, the heart, the soul, the thing oftentimes invisible to the eye of others. Our future and our fate lie in our wills more than in our hands are but the instruments of our wills.-B.C. Forbes

Art

Painting a great picture must require an intellect on the grandscale. There must be that ail-embracing view which presents the beginning and the end, the whole and each part, as one instantaneous impression retentively and untiringly held in the mind. When we look at the larger Turners-canvases yards wide and tall-and observe that they are all done in one piece and represent one single second of time, and that every innumerable detail, however distant, however subordinate, is set forth naturally and in its true proportion and relation, without effort, without failure, we must feel in the presence of an intellectual manifestation the equal in quality and intensity of the finest achievements of warlike action, of forensic argument, or of scientific or philosophical adjudication.-Winston Churchill

Not always so

In an effort to show that Presidents are just like other folks it is often said that they do as all other men, and put on their pants one leg at a time.

That isn't always so.

Fifty years ago when the editor published a newspaper at Winter Garden, Florida, he knew a druggist who put his pants on the floor, put both feet into the trouser legs, then pulled them on over both legs at the same time. Not only that, but the first thing he put on in the morning was a straw hat, even before he went to the bathroom to shave, and wore it during that early morning process.

Peculiar, to be sure, but it's more evidence that there are exceptions to all rules.--Paris Appeal

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor told off:
Carter sours Union chiefs by endorsing 'Right-To-Work' Anti-Union Shop laws

NEW YORK--Suddenly, bluntly, albeit casually, Jimmy Carter has told off the labor chiefs. In effect, he's warned them he can win, with our without them.

This tough telling it like it is has been overlooked as hordes of newsmen pursue the causuces, the rebels, the gays, the anti-obortionists. But, by broadcasting to the nation that he couldn't care less if anti-union shop and right-to-work laws stayed on the books of some 19 states, he might as well have have attempted to win the Jewish vote by endorsing Uganda President Idi Amin for mayor of Tel Aviv.

Carter was aked how he felt about right-to-work laws, "namely, that an American worker should not be compelled to join a union...to hold his job."

The ex-governor, whose captive audience here has had little to shout for or about, replied calmly:

"I think in general that principle suits me fine if the states prefer it...I don't see it (the right-to-work laws) as an important consideration. I don't have any strong belief on one side or the other, and it is something about which I think there is much more of a litmus test on philosophy than there is a deep desire on the apart of the labor people, the labor members to pursue."

The questioning was on the Taft-Hartley Laws section 14 (b) which gives the states the right to outlaw the union shop and the dues checkoff. This section's repeal, this union campaign to take the power from the states, has been labor's crusade for its own holy grail for almost three decades. Millions of dollars have been spent in the states and on Capitol Hill lobbying to wipe out this clause. In Louisiana insiders charge one lawyer has been slain recently by some partisan in this very battle.

Actually, the virtually inevitable endorsement of Jimmy Carter by the AFL-CIO general board on Aug. 30-31 (the date will be set by the July 19 AFL-CIO Executive Council session) means that never again can American labor fight right-to-work advocates without being subject to the charge that it's selective in its opposition to candidates on this issue. From now on labor will be accused of using the 14 (b) issue only when it's expedient.

I consider this a vital turning point in national labor politics.

Thus despite the statement issued here the other day by the United Auto Workers president Leonard Woodcock that there will be "the greatest united labor effort that this country has ever seen" to elect the Georgian, unionist gatherings here since last Sunday night have been merely loud wakes. Whatever spirit there was, was in the bottles.

Typical is the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union president, Sol (Chick) Chaikin, whose union invented labor politics. It plowed the way for Franklin Roosevelt. Chick Chaikin was outfront with Carter at last Saturday afternoon's welcoming rally--right alongside so his people could see for themselves his support of the ex-governor.

After Carter's casual-dismissal of, and refusal to support, one of labor's few unfulfilled passionate crusades, Chaikin, leader of some 400,000 militant unionists, said:

"Well, we'll have to find virtues in Carter which even his mother didn't know he had."

Chaikin showed more courage than a string of powerful labor chiefs, such as the steelworkers' I. W. Abel, who said merely that he would sit quietly in his delegate seat. Very quietly. At the '72 convention Abe Abel took his boos and screams of the crowd by nominating Scoop Jackson against McGovern.

What puzzles most of the union leaders is Carter's drubbing them in public. Slowly the labor chiefs, the heavyweights such as the Brotherhood of Carpenter's Bill Sidell, have been swinging into line with open endorsements. Why, some of them now ask, did he lay it on with a shovel?

Carter's views and definitive words were victories for Reed Larson, president of the 350,000-member Right to Work Committee. Organized labor considers it Public Enemy No. 1. Carter simply broke with labor on this "litmus" test. He charged that the rank and file really had no interest in repeal of the caluse which in effect bans the union shop.

For example, Carter told his questioner that he would sign a repeal of 14 (b) if it were passed by Congress.

"But," he added, "I don't intend to take it on as a crusade because il don't believe deeply that it is a bad circumstance."

Yet the 750 labor delegates, not all happy with each other, some of them is what's called the liberal Labor Coalition Clearing House needling the absent elder statesman George Meany, some here merely for their Committee on Political Education (COPE) administrative committee sessions, will vote for Carter. Why?

It's all summed up in what one labor leader quipped to another at a caucus:

"Did you hear the one about the chap who asked a fellow delegate: 'Who was that lady I saw you with last night?' And back came the answer: 'That was no lady, that was my son-in-law, and there isn't a damn thing I can do about it.'"

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

Carter Keeps Tabs on Senate Leadership Struggle

By Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

NEW YORK — Jimmy Carter, looking ahead to the possibility that he may become president in January, has expressed an intense interest in the Senate leadership struggle.

He has questioned a number of senators about the outcome, which is expected to narrow down to a choice between Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D.-Minn., and Sen. Robert Byrd, D.-W.Va.

Carter's private questions indicate concern that Humphrey, as a national leader with his own following, might use the leadership post to push his own policies.

The Democratic presidential candidate seems less concerned about Byrd who is a political mechanic more interested in running the Senate than in policymaking.

Carter satisifed himself after a 20-minute visit with Byrd that they could work together, our sources say. But at this writing, Carter hadn't spoken to Humphrey about the leadership race except for a brief reference to it on the telephone.

When the late Lyndon Johnson ran the Senate, he dominated its backrooms, wheeling and dealing, suffocating his supporters in his embrace, trampling down his opponents with the finesse of one of his prize bulls. As the Senate Democratic leader, he became almost as powerful as the President.

His successor, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D.-Mont., is as different from Johnson as ginger ale is from a martini. Mansfield relies on friendly persuasion to work his will. He never pressures, never pushes.

Humphrey, if he should now replace Mansfield, would be a more aggressive Senate leader. For that matter, Byrd has also shown an independent streak.

Of the 60 Democrats now in the Senate, Byrd told Carter that 33 had promised to vote for him. Byrd added that he expected to line up another half dozen by January. However, Humphrey has disputed Byrd's arithmetic, claiming that most senators are still uncommitted.

Meanwhile, another contender for the Senate leadership, Sen. Ed Muskie, D.-Me., offered privately to withdraw from the race in Humphrey's favor. Then Humphrey approached Sen. Ernest Hollings, D.-S.C., another contender, about withdrawing. Humphrey mentioned that Muskie had offered to pull out.

This got back to Muskie, who felt Humphrey had violated his confidence. Our sources say Muskie's nose was out of joint. We checked with Humphrey, who acknowledged that Muskie's nose "was bent slightly" over the incident. We couldn't reach Muskie for his comment.

Carter and Kissinger: If the presidential election came down to a choice between Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger would pick the peanut farmer.

Sources close to Kissinger say he would stay out of the campaign if Reagan were nominated and would not speak out against the Republican candidate. Those who have heard Kissinger discuss the candidates privately, however, say he is the least enthusiastic about Reagan.

On the campaign trail, Carter has denounced Kissinger's secretive style and his "one-man policy of international adventure," calling him the "Lone Ranger." But Carter's foreign policy pronouncements don't really differ much from what Kissinger has been saying.

Carter appears to be more friendly toward the underdeveloped nations and more interested in Latin American affairs. But on most other basic issues, Carter and Kissinger seem to share similar opinions.

In speeches around the country and in leaks to selected newsmen, meanwhile, Kissinger has been hammering home his foreign policy views. "He's trying to engrave on stone everything he has ever done," one State Department source confided. "No matter who the next president is, Kissinger wants him locked on the present course."

The Secretary of State began making regular monthly foreign policy speeches across the country in 1974. We could find no evidence that he has stepped up the schedule in recent months.

Carter's foreign policy stands have been produced, under his direction, by an elite group of advisers drawn from an Eastern establishment of lawyers and academics.

The 30-man task force is now writing some 40 "position papers" on every issue from African policy to the world food crisis. Its members include such foreign policy stalwarts as former Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance, former State Undersecretary George Ball, former Deputy Assistant State Secretary Richard Gardner and Columbia University professor Zbigniew Brzezinski.

The professor heads the team. In the past, he has been more militant than the advisers under him who, for the most part, are noted for their moderate views.

Kissinger and Brzezinski, both foreign-born, both renowned in the academic world, have been rivals. But except for personalities, Kissinger and Carter appear to be of a like mind.

This was admitted by one of Carter's top advisers. "There are some differences in style and emphasis," he told us, "but they do share a number of common views."

Footnote: Kissinger has told friends that if he were to guess, he would expect Carter to choose Vance as his Secretary of State. But the Democrat who is best qualified, Kissinger said, is ex-Sen. William Fulbright D.-Ark.

OUR 67TH YEAR | 15c PER COPY | SIKESTON SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI | FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1976 | NUMBER 118

Carter pledges to give government back to people

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter today returns to Georgia where his giant-killer campaign began and where he'll map plans to capture the White House in the Nov. 2 election.

Carter and the other half of his Blue-Gray ticket, Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, closed out the 1976 Democratic National Convention with tandem acceptance speeches Thursday night that proclaimed "a new mood in America."

Before leaving New York, where delegates approved his nomination, stamped a platform drawn to his taste and endorsed his running mate with more harmony than Democrats have seen in a decade, Carter scheduled his first post-convention strategy session and meetings with Democratic National Committee leaders.

"Nineteen seventy-six will not be a year of politics as usual," Carter told the convention. "It is a year of concern, and of quiet and sober reassessment of our nation's character and purpose — a year when voters have already confounded the political experts.

"It can be a year of inspiration and hope. And I guarantee you it will be the year when we give the government of this country back to the people of this country."

Carter opened his speech with the line which mostly brought chuckles when he started using it 19 months ago, "My name is Jimmy Carter, and I'm running for president."

Poking fun at the Republican division in the nomination race between President Ford and Ronald Reagan, Carter predicted a victory with his relatively youthful Democratic ticket, "no matter which Republican party they decide to send against me."

"We are a new generation of leadership," Mondale said. "We are strong. We are experienced. And we're ready."

Carter is 51, Mondale, 48.

The 1976 Democratic National Convention ended with the Rev. Martin Luther King, father of the slain civil rights leader, declaring, "Surely the Lord sent Jimmy Carter to come on out and bring America back where she belongs."

After today's meetings here, the Carter caravan was to head for the family home at Plains, Ga.

As he introduced Mondale as his choice for running mate, Carter said, "The first duty that Sen. Mondale will have will be to help win the election in the fall."

Carter said Mondale and his staff would be asked "to put forward their own proposal about what areas of the nation he should visit most, what particular states he would find most compatible with his own campaigning, and to share responsibilities for major events."

Carter said there would be staff meetings following up today's meeting between the two candidates. Presumably, the bulk of the planning will be done in Plains, where Carter is expected to spend most of his time until the campaign against the Republican nominee begins in early September.

The Carter campaign headquarters will remain in Atlanta in keeping with his non-Washington approach to the election. Washington operations will center on the Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Aides said party chairman Robert Strauss, the man generally credited with patching up the party after divisive conventions and campaigns torn by the Vietnam war in 1968 and internal party changes in 1972, would coordinate national connections.

Carter's speech was perhaps the most comprehensive display yet of his stands on the major political issues, although it generally reflected the party platform which his delegates were instrumental in writing.

Carter said he wanted jobs for all who were able to work, comprehensive tax reform, universal voter registration, a national health program, an end to racial and sex discrimination, firm law enforcement and an end to "the double standard of justice in America.

"I see no reason why big shot crooks should go free while the poor ones go to jail," Carter said.

Carter told reporters later he could accomplish his goals within four years of moving into the White House.

While Carter denounced "the disgrace of Watergate," he did not mention personalities. But Mondale went further by bringing up President Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon for Watergate offenses.

"We have just lived through the worst political scandal in American history and are now led by a President who pardoned the person who did it," Mondale said.

On foreign policy, Carter's speech was reminiscent of John F. Kennedy's inaugural address 15 years ago. He called for "a sustained architectural effort to shape an international framework of peace within which our own ideals gradually can become a global reality."

Meet the city manager

Sikeston's public safety program

On July 9, City Manager Charles Church announced the appointment of Kenneth Francis, 31, police chief of Trenton, as the city's first public safety director.

The public safety program will combine duties of the police and fire departments with the aim of providing improved fire protection for the city.

By training and equipping police officers to fight fires, the city will be gaining a large number of additional fire protection personnel with little additional cost.

It will be up to Francis to initiate the program and develop policies necessary for the program to succeed.

Church said he expects the public safety program to be in full operation within one year to 18 months.

The following questions and answers were edited from a press interview with Church on Thursday afternoon.

It is the first of a continuing series of interviews Church will hold with members of the local press. Each of the interviews will center around one topic.

Q. What criteria did you use to pick Francis and why was someone from out of town chosen for the position?

A. What was important to me in the selection process, and also in discussions with the interview board, was leadership ability and knowledge of police and fire administration.

In the very early stages there was one local person whom I considered extremely qualified for the position. He was offered the position and at that time turned it down. My preference would have been to appoint a local person, but the review process ended with it being an out of town person.

Q. How are we justifying a $15,0000 a year salary?

A. City government is no different than private employment. The employer has to pay what the law of supply and demand requires to retain and keep qualified people. And, if a city government or business does not remain competetive, it loses its employes to other agencies or employers.

For that reason the salary range was set at $15,000, as being competitive with what other communities are paying to keep good administrators in the police and fire area.

One-half of the salary of the public safety director is being paid by a grant from the state of Missouri called the Intergovernmental Personnel Act program. One-half the director's salary and benefit benefits are paid by the program possibly up to three years.

The costs of implementing the program, such as a training, travel, instructors coming to Sikeston for the training, the necessary fire equipment (air packs and turnout gear), are all being paid 50 per cent by this grant.

Q. The public safety programs are not new, but if they are such a good idea, why are only four communities using public safety directors?

A. Public safety, like any other program is not a canned program. It is not suitable for every community. Communities with strong firefighter unions oppose it, because they fear it is an encroachment on their authority and jurisdiction.

It just depends if a community is ready, and I think Sikeston is fairly receptive to it because we have a lack of fire manpower. Communities with a large fire department really don't have a need to go to it and they probably get a resistance to the change because they have, for example, 30 firemen.

Where you only have 10 firemen, you need additional personnel, and it becomes more attractive because it is a much cheaper way of providing additional personnel than hiring 20 additional firemen.

Q. Cape Girardeau looked at this concept three or four years ago and the reason given by its leaders for not adopting it was that it would be an administrative nightmare. They said there was no way you could put those two diverse groups together into one group. How do you counter these objections?

A. Sikeston is in a situation much different than Cape Girardeau. Cape has a full-time paid fire department with fully manned stations. Their police department is of adequate size.

Sikeston has a police department which is slightly above national standard per capita (policemen per thousand population).

We're a little heavy on one side and weak on the other and it (public safety program) provides a balance.

I think the question is "are the duties of a policeman and a fireman compatible?" They are both providing protection for life and property.

The patrolman, while he is on patrol, has time that is available for other duties and if he is in a patrol situation and we have a fire, then he can assist at no additional cost to the city .

. Q. Have the programs in other communities in the state been looked at to see how well they are operating?

A. Yes. The other communities are Mexico, Gladstone and Maryville. Mexico's program has gone extremely well, as has Gladstones. Maryville's program has not gone as well. Part of the problem there has been police manpower and originally they had a public safety ydirector who was extremely capable. He died after a year and a half and they have not been able to find a suitable replacement.

Their program is still going, but is not as strong as the others.

The other community is Des Peres, which is doing extremely well with its program.

Q. Were their public safety programs set up for the same reasons as Sikeston's?

A. Yes. Des Peres has another dimension in that the city also provides ambulance service through the public safety program.

Q. Is the city going to notice any savings or will the residents notice any difference in the type of protection they receive?

A. The changes that will be physically noticeable in the community will be quicker response in terms of initial manpower under the program. The police officers are generally closer to a fire scene than the fire station. They will provide additional manpower trained to respond in fire situations.

Contract awarded to clean out ditch

BLOOMFIELD--The Stoddard County Court this week awarded Young & Fowler Escavating Co. of Warrenton the contract to clean out a three-mile stretch of ditch in the northern part of the county.

The Warrenton firm submitted the lowest bid--$8,205 total--the only one received that was not from a business in the area.

The next lowest bid was $18,250, submitted by Lemons Gravel Co. of Dexter, which was more than $10,000 higher than the Warrenton firm's offer.

Other bids submitted included: Kinder Construction Co. of Dexter $19,496; William Morris Hampton of Dexter $20,461; and Hessling Bros. Drainage Co. of Dexter, $22,400.

The contract was awarded this week after bids were opened Monday by the court, but it will not become final until the company furnishes a 100 per cent performance bond.

In a letter to the company, County Clerk John Marvin Capps told the firm the bond would be needed and that after the contract has been completed, it would have 90 days to finish the work.

Cost of the project was originally estimated at about $30,000.

Whatever the cost, the court said it will be divided among landowners, based on the assessed benefits provided to each.

The stretch actually involves two ditches--Drainage Ditches No. 13 and 33 which run into each other.

The court decided to ask for bids on the work June 3 after a public hearing in which at least one person objected to the work being done.

Complaints were stilled, however, when it was pointed out that landowners who would get no benefit out of the work might not have to pay for the work.

Whether or not to undertake the project has been a matter of controversy for several years . As a consequence, the decision had been a long time in coming.

Most of the cost will be to clear timber from the ditch and along the bank. The last time the ditches were cleared was in 1958 when only part of the stretch was completed.

Landowners may pay for the work in one lump sum or may pay it over a five-year period.

Traveler's suitcase looted

Darrel Hampton of Biggers, Ark., told police that his shaving case and electric razor were taken from his suitcase early today.

Hampton told police he set the suitcase on the ground outside Kellett's Service Station about midnight and went inside the station. When he came out about 45 minutes later the suitcase was open and the items were gone.

He said the shaving case and razor were worth $110.

Children with firecrackers burn shed

Firemen were called at 8:40 p.m. Thursday to the Jerry McMackins residence, 925 Tanner, where a fire destroyed a shed. Cause of the fire was listed as children playing with firecrackers.

Sikeston firemen were also called at 9:32 p.m. to assist the Morehouse Fire Depaartment with a farm shed fire at the Herman Smith Farm, three-quarters of a mile east of Birds Corner. The Morehouse Firemen had been called to the blaze about 8:30 p.m., which destroyed the shed. A truck which was parked in the shed was destroyed when the gas tank exploded.

At 1 p.m. firemen were called to the city garage when a pile of lumber caught fire from a spark from a welding torch being used to cut up an abandoned vehicle.

Stolen money is recovered

NEW MADRID--Nearly all of $170 that was stolen about 5 a.m. Thursday in the Mamie Williams home in Howardville has been recovered, according to New Madrid County Deputy Sheriff Johnny Martin.

An 18-year-old Howardville man, Leon Lee, has been charged in New Madrid County Magistrate Court with stealing over $50.

Lee, who allegedly entered the house through an unlocked door while the family was sleeping, bought a bus ticket to Chicago and was arrested later Thursday in Sikeston by police.

Busload of children apparently kidnaped

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-six children and the driver of their school bus who vanished on their way home from a swimming outing apparently are the victims of a mass kidnaping, the Madera County sheriff said today.

Deputies and police searched the San Joaquin Valley farmland through a windy, rainy night split by lightning and thunder for some clue to the whereabouts of the children, who ranged in age from 5 to 15.

The bus in which the children had been riding was found in a dry canal Thursday night.

"It appears to be an abduction," Sheriff Ed Bates told reporters. "We are waiting to be contacted."

Bates said his investigators found two sets of tracks superimposed on the bus tracks, suggesting that an abduction "would have to be planned, it seems to me." The tracks showed that "somebody left the area after the bus was parked."

The bus, which was to have returned the children from the Chowchilla fairgrounds, was found abandoned in a dry canal during a search from the air. It was hdden in a heavy stand of bamboo in the flat farmland about 35 miles northwest of Fresno.

The sheriff said he couldn't "think of any other possibility" but a kidnaping. "There's no blood, no evidence of foul play at the bus. I'm at a loss for words about this one. I absolutely can't figure it. We can't find anybody who has a motive."

Bates said the FBI has been called in.

The children are students at the Dairyland Unified School, which school district secretary Nita Hansen described as "just a little country school."

She said the bus driver, 55-year-old Frank Edward Ray Jr., was "very reliable" and had been driving for the school for 28 years.

"You couldn't ask for a nicer guy," Mrs. Hansen said. "He was born and raised here."

Sheriff Bates, who set up a command post at the Chowchilla Police Department, speculated that there were five possibilities: a "deranged guy" who had kidnaped the entire group; a "personal revenge, somebody who wants to make the parents suffer;" a kidnaping "for money;" a "terrorist" plot; or "some older kid on the bus took command by force."

Shortly before dawn Bates discarded as a clue reports that a white van seen the last two days near where the bus lets children off might be involved in the disappearance. The vehicle turned out to be a "dental van" which has been assigned to the area, he said.

The sheriff's office said it received calls from anxious parents beginning about 4:15 p.m. Thursday. At that time, the bus was two hours overdue.

County Clerk office open on Saturdays

BENTON--Scott County Clerk, Bob Kielhofner reports his office will be open the next three Saturdays for persons wishing to cast absentee ballots in the Aug. 3 primary election.

Kielhofner said persons wishing to cast absentee ballots may vote at his office between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday or from 8:30 a.m. to noon for the next three Saturdays, July 17, 24 and 31.

Anyone unable to go to his office in person may request an absentee ballot by mail, he added. Persons wishing to have an absentee ballot sent in the mail must write to the Scott County clerk in Benton before July 30, and must state their preference of a Democrat or Republican ballot. An absentee ballot will then be sent by registered mail and must be returned to his office no later than Aug . 2, Kielhofner said.

At present, Kielhofner said 195 absentee ballots have been issued for military personnel and civilians, with 56 having been completed.

Economy better than expected, Ford says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration said today that the economy will perform better than originally expected during 1976, providing Americans with about 379,000 more jobs and diminishing the erosion of inflation on peoples' buying power.

"The President believes his economic policies are the major reasons for this improvement," said White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

Revised administration projections on the nation's unemployment, inflation and production capacity must be sent to Congress later this month under the new budget-making procedures.

The President's top economic and budget advisers released their projections at a briefing. They attributed the estimates of the stronger-than-expected economic performance to developments which already have taken place.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said a crucial factor in the improved econmic picture has been greater confidence by consumers and businessmen. Greenspan said the confidence has been gaining even faster than expected and has been translated into faster economic growth.

Nessen said the President is determined to stick to his economic program and get the budget back into balance by 1979, if posible.

Mrs. Garner found dead in her home

Scott County authorities are investigating the death of Wanda Sue Garner, 38, of Route Four, who was found dead in her home shortly after noon Thursday by her husband, Art Garner.

Mrs. Garner was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore ordered a coroner's jury be impaneled to view the body in case an autopsy revealed any chance of foul play.

An autopsy was performed after permission was granted by Garner. Investigation is still pending.

Moore said there is nothing to indicate foul play at this time.

O'Guinn Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements which are incomplete.

Mondale has Missouri ties

FREDERICKTON, Mo. (AP) — The Rev. Lester Mondale says its hard for him to believe that his kid brother has a shot at being the vice president of the United States.

"It does seem very unreal to me at this moment that somebody from our Methodist farmer family should be vice president," Rev. Mondale said Thursday after receiving the news that Walter F. Mondale had received the Democratic nomination as Jimmy Carter's running mate.

"I came in from sawing wood to watch Mr. Carter announce his choice," said Mondale. "We didn't know, of course, that it would be Fritz, but we had high hopes."

Rev. Mondale, 72, actually a half brother of the senator from Minnesota, called Carter's selection "logical" and said Walter Mondale would be a good man to have in the vice presidency.

"Fritz, like the rest of us, imbibed his philosophy of life from Dad (a Methodist minister), who had a passion for social justice. Fritz combines practicality with idealism. He evaluates people by how they treat other people."

Rev. Mondale, who calls himself "the hillbilly of the family," retired from the Unitarian ministry in 1962 and now lives in a log cabin he built himself on an 80-acre tract near here.

"Our father had two families," Rev. Mondale said. "Three sons and an adopted daughter by his first wife, who was my mother. After her death, Dad remarried and had three more sons, one of whom was Fritz.

"I'm the oldest of the family—old enough to be his father."

Will the Rev. Mondale and his wife Rosemary, 59, campaign for Mondale as they have in the past?

"I think we're gonna keep our noses out of it," he said.

"I don't know what's going to happen to me now. My life may not be my own. This is more me. My identity is out here in these hills. In 1972 Fritz made an ironical remark about my being his hillbilly helper. So I told him that if he ever runs for president, I'll have his log cabin ready for him."

Iowa woman first to leave West Point

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—She was one of the first to bring skirts, curls and the feminine touch to the "Long Gray Line," but after a brief taste of military life, Retsey Ronk of Council Bluffs decided West Point and a career in the Army just aren't the things she's looking for in life.

"It's as simple as that," said Retsey's mother, Mrs. Richard Ronk, explaining why her 18-year-old daughter became the first woman to quit West Point.

Retsey was one of 119 women admitted to West Point last week as the academy accepted women for the first time. She returned home Thursday.

Mrs. Ronk said she thinks it was the "regimentation," that turned her daughter off.

"It wasn't that she couldn't do it," said Mrs. Ronk, noting that Retsey is highly qualified on the basis of eduction.

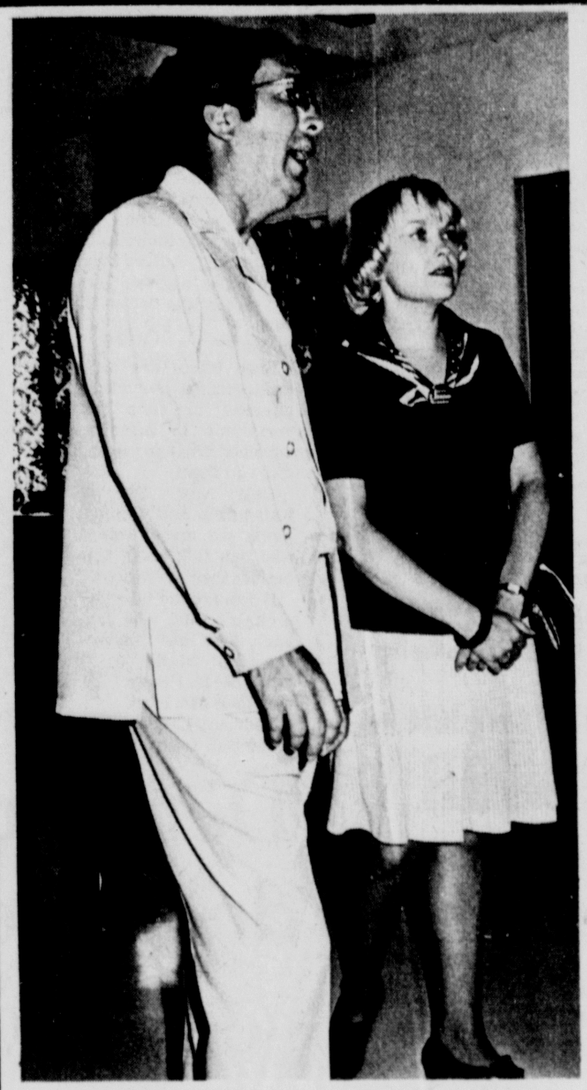

"There are going to be women make it at West Point," said Mrs. Ronk. "I think Retsey could have made it if she had so desired. But she found out that a military career wasn't what she desired."

Mrs. Ronk said her daughter feels no animosity toward the academy.

"It took as much courage for her to come home as it did to go — maybe more," said Mrs. Ronk.

Retsey, who has interests in mathematics and law, will go to a regular college this fall, but she doesn't know where.

Retsey does not want to be interviewed, the mother added.

Jerry Bishop, program coordinator for the Sikeston Regional Diagnostic Clinic, escorted Mrs. Sharon Litton on a tour of the clinic's facilities Thursday during a campaign visit Mrs. Litton made on behalf of her husband Jerry, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for U. Mrs. Litton visits city to campaign for her husband

Sharon "Sherri" Litton, wife of Sixth District Rep. Jerry Litton, who is seeeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in the Aug. 3 primary, said in Sikeston Thursday she supports her husband's stances on both the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) and the abortion issue.

Litton supports ERA and has said that women are not treated as equals under U.S. laws. He favors an amendment to the Constitution giving states the right to decide whether or not abortion should be legal in the state, but has said that if he were in the position of voting on the issue in Missouri, he would vote against it.

"We've always been partners," said blonde, compact Mrs. Litton, saying that she often agrees with her husband on the issues. "Jerry is a thinking man, some of his ideas are liberal and some conservative. He doesn't really fit into either category."

Mrs. Litton who was dressed in her husband's campaign colors of brown and white, and carried a purse with the sologan "Jerry for senator" carved into the leather. She says it has been a long, hot summer on the campaign trail but that she has enjoyed her travels throughout the state.

In Sikeston, Mrs. Litton visited the Heritage House, was guest of honor at a lunch at the Holiday Inn, and spent part of the day meeting with local businessmen. She also visited the Sikeston Diagnostic and the Convalescent Center.

She was scheduled to visit the Chaffee area today.

Mrs. Litton, 36, is a native of Chillicothe, where she and her husband are ranchers. She has a degree in business from Christian College in Columbia, now known as Columbia College.

The Littons have two children, a daughter, Linda, 13, and a 12-year-old son, Scott.

Experts fear effect of X-ray screening to find breast cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outside panel of experts wants the National Cancer Institute to halt routine X-ray screening of healthy women under age 50 for breast cancer. The panel contends the risks of the radiation may outweigh the benefits.

The tests, called mammography, have been given to about 250,000 women since 1972 under a program run jointly by the NCI and the American Cancer Society.

Health officials disagree about the risks of mammography. They plan to take up the issue at a meeting Monday.

NCI Director Dr. Frank Rauscher said the risks are likely to be "very small." But he said the benefits of screening "may not be as great as was thought when the project started."

However, an official of the American Cancer Society said Wednesday the society would be "extremely reluctant to discontinue projects that are bringing about the early detection of breast cancer in women, including women between 35 and 50."

Pat Nixon takes 1st steps since stroke

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Pat Nixon's first steps after her stroke were a "most signifigant sign of improvement," one of her doctors says.

Mrs. Nixon, recovering from the stroke suffered last week, walked on her own for the first time Thursday since she entered the hospital.

A hospital spokesman said doctors "remain optimistic that she has a good chance of making a total or near total recovery in three to four months."

XXX Women's Lib leader Gloria Steinem fired off separate telegrams to the White House last week. President Ford was denounced for his "opposition to the Supreme Curt ruling on abortion," with Steinem telling the Chief Executive that he "will be personally responsible for both lawlessness and for the injury and death of American women." To Betty Ford, Steinem expressed thanks for "your continued support of a woman's right to choose abortion."

PINCH BOTTOM PROGRESS

An estimated 25 per cent of the food the United States sends overseas each year is lost during shipment, or to rodents, insects and spoilage after apprival. Vast quantities of grains produced in chronically starvation-threatened countries like India and Bangladesh are similarly lost because of poor storage.

Now American packaging ingenuity is helping to turn the tide in this aspect of the battle against world hunger in the form of tough, drab brown shipping backs with the improbable name of Pinch Bottom. Developed by St. Regis Paper Co. in concert with the State Department's Agency for International Development, the bags carried 300,000 tons of food overseas last year and dramatically reduced losses to pets, punctures and rough handling.

The Pinch Bottom bag is a composite of kraft paper and plastic, treated with mold inhibitor and insect repellent on the inside and sealed with hot-melt adhesive seals at both ends "to keep what's inside in and what's outside out," says a St. Regis official.

Unlike traditional sewn bags, Pinch Bottom bags frequently remain in distribution channels six months or more, sometimes sit in the rain for weeks or are stacked in the open in jungles and still resist insects moisture and rot.

TEEN-AGE TURNABOUT

The "Old-fashioned" teenager is making a comeback, say school officials interviewed by UPI in California. Interest in traditional activites like pep clubs and student elections is on the upswing. The appeal of the "counter culture" is fading. Boys are wearing lettermen's jackets again, and girls are wearing dresses, at least for proms.

"We came out of the rebellious '60s, through the sullen early '70s, and now we're back to the old spirit," says one principal.

"They (students) are still extremely casual," says another, "but the wild hairdos, the unspeakable jeans -- they're gone."

One reason behind the trend, the officials believe, is the current nostalgia for the 1950s and early 1960s, which to today's teenagers seem to represent an idyllic, happier time -- and certainly was, compared to the Vietnam-era strife they grew up in.

This is all welcome new, but we wonder. Nostalgia fads come and go in cycles, like everything else, and what one generation would not want to live through again may look glamorous to the next. Will school officials of the 1980s be faced with the return of the scroungy and rebellious teenager of the 1960s?

Crackdown on white collar crime

With so much in the news about corruption in business and government-from the short-weighing of grain shipments to the lavishing of goodies on officials to, most recently, the sale of inferior meat to the Army at outlandish prices-it is encouraging in a way to learn that the Soviets are not without similar scandals.

That they are not, after nearly six decades of totalitarian rule over the lives of the Russian people, suggests at least that the fault lies not in a country's political or economic system but in just plain old human nature.

According to "Literaturnaya Gazeta" (The Literary Gazette), 13 Soviet officials have been convicted of fleecing the state of some 365,000 rubles-about $500,000-to build a "disgusting dolece vita" hideaway on the Volga, replete with frescos, marbles, plush carpets, free-running vodka and sexually compliant "hostesses."

The difference between this and most scandals in this country, however, is what the Soviets did about it: They rapped the officials with prison terms of up to 15 years.

The Soviets, of course, have always treated economic crimes-what we lump in the broad category of "white collar "crimes-more harshly than crimes of violence. But there are signs that our tendency to view such things as embezzlement, fraud and illegal business practices as different from ordinary crimes, and to punish offenders more leniently, may be changing.

According to a special report on "White-Collar Justice" by the Bureau of National Affairs, judges and prosecutors are placing a new emphasis on white-collar crime- "a silent, pernicious class of crimes that robs the American public of an estimated $40 billion annually," or 200 times the amount stolen by all the bank robbers in this county in one year, says the bureau, a Washington, D.C.-based private organization.

In a three-month study, the bureau interviewed judges, prison inmates, prosecutors, penologists and other experts in seven cities and found that "throughout the nation, prosecutors are demanding - and judges are delivering-stiff prison terms for businessmen and executives who use a pen, instead of a gun, to rob the public."

In its fiscal 1975 report, for example, the FBI reported an increase of 25 per cent in investigations of white-collar crimes over fiscal 1971. There were 2,247 convictions in 1975, nearly 15 per cent more than the previous year. Even so, some prosecutors claim the FBI should be doing much more.

The stepped-up attack on white-collar crime has, in fact, underscored the problems facing prosecutors, including manpower shortgags, allegedly soft-sentencing judges and the very complexity of consumer fraud and antitrust cases.

The bureau also found a great deal of disagreement among people in the justice system about what kind of punishment, and how much of it, should be meted out to white-collar offenders. "We really don't know," said one judge, "whether it's the length of the sentence that the deterrent effect. I suspect a greater deterrent effect is the certainty of prison sentence, and the speed with which it's imposed, rather than its length."

While it is getting tougher to make a dishonest dollar, the report concludes, prosecutors and judges still face significant problems in their struggle against white-collar crime. They "must fight an invisible enemy on a battleground where dollars, not lives are lost" and where it is not always easy to distinguish friend from foe.

Not the least of these problems may be the attitude of some white-collar offenders themselves. The bureau quotes one of them, a former senior State Department official convicted of bribing a tax auditor, as saying, "I don't consider myself a criminal. I couldn't live with myself if I did."

Then will I lead the children of Israel forth, parting the waters of the Red Sea so that they may cross, and thereafter strewing the sesert with manna so that they may eat."

And Moses said, "O Lord, that's wonderful! But tell me, what's the bad news?"

And the Lord God replied, "It will be up to you, Moses, to write the environmental-impact statement."

Juvenile Delinquency?

Delinquency of our young is a popular topic of conversation. "They have no respect for authority," we hear. "How can we teach them?"

Franklin noted: "None preaches better than the ant, and she says nothing." Action is the loudest speaker. It is better to show than to tell. A good example is better than millions of words. Alexander received more bravery of mind by the pattern of Achilles than by having the definition of fortitude.

It isn't the cry of the wild duck, but its flight, that leads the flock to fly and follow. The strongest arguments is: "I have seen it with my own eyes."

Let's stop talking and start showing. Disrespect for authority manifests itself in breaking minor traffic laws, in "stretching the truth" in conversation, in mis-leading advertising-in a hundred minor actions which we may consider unimportant but which are demonstrations to our young.

Our youth cry: "Don't tell us, show us!"

Delinquent children? Or delinquent parents?

Willpower

Every young man ambitious to succeed must first cultivate will power, for without willpower he will never triumph over all the obstacles and difficulties he is sure to encounter in the pursuit of his goal. Painting a great picture must require an intellect on the grandscale. There must be that ail-embracing view which presents the beginning and the end, the whole and each part, as one instantaneous impression retentively and untiringly held in the mind. When we look at the larger Turners-canvases yards wide and tall-and observe that they are all done in one piece and represent one single second of time, and that every innumerable detail, however subordinate, is set forth naturally and in its true proportion and relation, without effort, without failure, we must feel in the presence of an intellectual manifestation the equal in quality and intensity of the finest achievements of warlike action, of forensic argument, or of scientific or philosophical adjudication.-Winston Churchill

Not always so

In an effort to show that Presidents are just like other folks it is often said that they do as all other men, and put on their pants one leg at a time.

That isn't always so.

Fifty years ago when the editor published a newspaper at Winter Garden, Florida, he knew a druggist who put his pants on the floor, put both feet into the trouser legs, then pulled them on over both legs at the same time. Not only that, but the first thing he put on in the morning was a straw hat, even before he went to the bathroom to shave, and wore it during that early morning process.

Peculiar, to be sure, but it's more evidence that there are exceptions to all rules.--Paris Appeal

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor told off:
Carter sours Union chiefs by endorsing 'Right-To-Work' Anti-Union Shop laws

NEW YORK--Suddenly, bluntly, albeit casually, Jimmy Carter has told off the labor chiefs. In effect, he's warned them he can win, with our without them.

This tough telling it like it is has been overlooked as hordes of newsmen pursue the causuces, the rebels, the gays, the anti-obortionists. But, by broadcasting to the nation that he couldn't care less if anti-union shop and right-to-work laws stayed on the books of some 19 states, he might as well have have attempted to win the Jewish vote by endorsing Uganda President Idi Amin for mayor of Tel Aviv.

Carter was aked how he felt about right-to-work laws, "namely, that an American worker should not be compelled to join a union...to hold his job."

The ex-governor, whose captive audience here has had little to shout for or about, replied calmly:

"I think in general that principle suits me fine if the states prefer it...I don't see it (the right-to-work laws) as an important consideration. I don't have any strong belief on one side or the other, and it is something about which I think there is much more of a litmus test on philosophy than there is a deep desire on the apart of the labor people, the labor members to pursue."

The questioning was on the Taft-Hartley Laws section 14(b) which gives the states the right to outlaw the union shop and the dues checkoff. This section's repeal, this union campaign to take the power from the states, has been labor's crusade for its own holy grail for almost three decades. Millions of dollars have been spent in the states and on Capitol Hill lobbying to wipe out this clause. In Louisiana insiders charge one lawyer has been slain recently by some partisan in this very battle.

Actually, the virtually inevitable endorsement of Jimmy Carter by the AFL-CIO general board on Aug. 30-31 (the date will be set by the July 19 AFL-CIO Executive Council session) means that never again can American labor fight right-to-work advocates without being subject to the charge that it's selective in its opposition to candidates on this issue. From now on labor will be accused of using the 14(b) issue only when it's expedient.

I consider this a vital turning point in national labor politics.

Thus despite the statement issued here the other day by the United Auto Workers president Leonard Woodcock that there will be "the greatest united labor effort that this country has ever seen" to elect the Georgian, unionist gatherings here since last Sunday night have been merely loud wakes. Whatever spirit there was, was in the bottles.

Typical is the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union president, Sol (Chick) Chaikin, whose union invented labor politics. It plowed the way for Franklin Roosevelt. Chick Chaikin was outfront with Carter at last Saturday afternoon's welcoming rally--right alongside so his people could see for themselves his support of the ex-governor.

After Carter's casual-dismissal of, and refusal to support, one of labor's few unfulfilled passionate crusades, Chaikin, leader of some 400,000 militant unionists, said:

"Well, we'll have to find virtues in Carter which even his mother didn't know he had."

Chaikin showed more courage than a string of powerful labor chiefs, such as the steelworkers' I. W. Abel, who said merely that he would sit quietly in his delegate seat. Very quietly. At the '72 convention Abe Abel took his boos and screams of the crowd by nominating Scoop Jackson against McGovern.

What puzzles most of the union leaders is Carter's drubbing them in public. Slowly the labor chiefs, the heavyweights such as the Brotherhood of Carpenter's Bill Sidell, have been swinging into line with open endorsements. Why, some of them now ask, did he lay it on with a shovel?

Carter's views and definitive words were victories for Reed Larson, president of the 350,000-member Right to Work Committee. Organized labor considers it Public Enemy No. 1. Carter simply broke with labor on this "litmus" test. He charged that the rank and file really had no interest in repeal of the caluse which in effect bans the union shop.

For example, Carter told his questioner that he would sign a repeal of 14(b) if it were passed by Congress.

"But," he added, "I don't intend to take it on as a crusade because il don't believe deeply that it is a bad circumstance."

Yet the 750 labor delegates, not all happy with each other, some of them is what's called the liberal Labor Coalition Clearing House needling the absent elder statesman George Meany, some here merely for their Committee on Political Education (COPE) administrative committee sessions, will vote for Carter. Why?

It's all summed up in what one labor leader quipped to another at a caucus:

"Did you hear the one about the chap who asked a fellow delegate: 'Who was that lady I saw you with last night?' And back came the answer: 'That was no lady, that was my son-in-law, and there isn't a damn thing I can do about it.'"

Carter Keeps Tabs on Senate Leadership Struggle

By Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

NEW YORK — Jimmy Carter, looking ahead to the possibility that he may become president in January, has expressed an intense interest in the Senate leadership struggle.

He has questioned a number of senators about the outcome, which is expected to narrow down to a choice between Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D.-Minn., and Sen. Robert Byrd, D.-W.Va.

Carter's private questions indicate concern that Humphrey, as a national leader with his own following, might use the leadership post to push his own policies.

The Democratic presidential candidate seems less concerned about Byrd who is a political mechanic more interested in running the Senate than in policymaking.

Carter satisifed himself after a 20-minute visit with Byrd that they could work together, our sources say. But at this writing, Carter hadn't spoken to Humphrey about the leadership race except for a brief reference to it on the telephone.

When the late Lyndon Johnson ran the Senate, he dominated its backrooms, wheeling and dealing, suffocating his supporters in his embrace, trampling down his opponents with the finesse of one of his prize bulls. As the Senate Democratic leader, he became almost as powerful as the President.

His successor, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D.-Mont., is as different from Johnson as ginger ale is from a martini. Mansfield relies on friendly persuasion to work his will. He never pressures, never pushes.

Humphrey, if he should now replace Mansfield, would be a more aggressive Senate leader For that matter, Byrd has also shown an independent streak.

Of the 60 Democrats now in the Senate, Byrd told Carter that 33 had promised to vote for him. Byrd added that he expected to line up another half dozen by January. However, Humphrey has disputed Byrd's arithmetic, claiming that most senators are still uncommitted.

Meanwhile, another contender for the Senate leadership, Sen. Ed Muskie, D.-Me., offered privately to withdraw from the race in Humphrey's favor. Then Humphrey approached Sen. Ernest Hollings, D.-S.C., another contender, about withdrawing. Humphrey mentioned that Muskie had offered to pull out.

This got back to Muskie, who felt Humphrey had violated his confidence. Our sources say Muskie's nose was out of joint. We checked with Humphrey, who acknowledged that Muskie's nose "was bent slightly" over the incident. We couldn't reach Muskie for his comment.

Carter and Kissinger: If the presidential election came down to a choice between Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger would pick the peanut farmer.

Sources close to Kissinger say he would stay out of the campaign if Reagan were nominated and would not speak out against the Republican candidate. Those who have heard Kissinger discuss the candidates privately, however, say he is the least enthusiastic about Reagan.

On the campaign trail, Carter has denounced Kissinger's secretive style and his "one-man policy of international adventure," calling him the "Lone Ranger." But Carter's foreign policy pronouncements don't really differ much from what Kissinger has been saying.

Carter appears to be more friendly toward the underdeveloped nations and more interested in Latin American affairs. But on most other basic issues, Carter and Kissinger seem to share similar opinions.

In speeches around the country and in leaks to selected newsmen, meanwhile, Kissinger has been hammering home his foreign policy views. "He's trying to engrave on stone everything he has ever done," one State Department source confided. "No matter who the next president is, Kissinger wants him locked on the present course."

The Secretary of State began making regular monthly foreign policy speeches across the country in 1974. We could find no evidence that he has stepped up the schedule in recent months.

Carter's foreign policy stands have been produced, under his direction, by an elite group of advisers drawn from an Eastern establishment of lawyers and academics.

The 30-man task force is now writing some 40 "position papers" on every issue from African policy to the world food crisis. Its members include such foreign policy stalwarts as former Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance, former State Undersecretary George Ball, former Deputy Assistant State Secretary Richard Gardner and Columbia University professor Zbigniew Brzezinski.

The professor heads the team. In the past, he has been more militant than the advisers under him who, for the most part, are noted for their moderate views.

Kissinger and Brzezinski, both foreign-born, both renowned in the academic world, have been rivals. But except for personalities, Kissinger and Carter appear to be of a like mind.

This was admitted by one of Carter's top advisers. "There are some differences in style and emphasis," he told us, "but they do share a number of common views."

Footnote: Kissinger has told friends that if he were to guess, he would expect Carter to choose Vance as his Secretary of State. But the Democrat who is best qualified, Kissinger said, is ex-Sen. William Fulbright D.-Ark.

Ann Landers

Illness discussion turns her stomach

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I moved to Kalamazoo, Mich., from Grand Rapids. Although the cities are not far apart it's like a different world.

I have always been involved with church and club work. In Grand Rapids, I was active in many groups and the women were lovely. I've met some fine women here in Kalamazoo but they are older and seem to be preoccupied with their illnesses and operations. I attended a lunch meeting this afternoon and the conversation was a rehash of everyone's surgery. One women told about her ovarian cyst, "the size of a lemon." Another woman described her tumor as "big as a grapefruit." A third lady, not to be outdone, said her fibroid was the largest the doctor had ever seen -- "as big as a watermelon."

Such topics are boring and unappetizing. I've tried without success to turn the conversations to more uplifting subjects. What do you suggest? -- New In Town.

Dear New: I've been to Kalamazoo and I can tell you there are many women there who can talk about something besides their operations.

If you are fed up with "organ recitals" (and who can blame you), find new friends. There are all kinds of women everywhere. People, like water, seek their own level.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the lady who asked if her unemployed husband has the right to ask for sex after 11:00 at night when she must be at work at 8:00 in the morning.

It seems to me the lady's problem isn't that her husband wants sex after 11:00 p.m., but that he is unemployed! How would she feel about his sex drive if he had a job? Would she still be too tired?

If so, she has a third problem -- she doesn't want sex ANY time, under ANY conditions. When does she think other working couples make love?

If Mrs. Too Tired really objects to the time of night, she could solve the problem very easily by suggesting that they get cozy the minute she walks in the door after work -- or the first thing in the morning. I'll bet he'd be delighted no matter what the hour. -- No Timekeeper.

Dear N.T.: "Getting cozy" the minute Mrs. Working Wife walks in the door is fine provided (1) they have no kids, (2) someone has at least started the supper.

Morning makes better sense, assuming, of course, that she is a canary and he is a rooster.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a divorced woman with a seven-year- old daughter. When she visits her father they sleep in the same bed. I don't like to make waves unless I am sure of my ground because my ex has a very short temper. When he blows his top he's like a crazy man.

Do you think this arrangement might be harmful to the child? I won't say anything till I hear from you. What do you say? Midwestern Mama

Dear Mama: I've said it dozens of times but I'll say it again. Children should not be permitted to sleep with their parents.

If you ex has an explosive temper, ask your pediatrician to write him a note stating the facts. If the sleeping together continues, see your lawyer about revising your husband's visiting privileges.

Democratic female delegates learn to scale political ropes

NEW YORK (AP) — Many women left this year's Democratic convention convinced they are coming of age politically and with a new appreciation of the art of compromise.

"Women delegates this year were much more politically mature about when to negotiate and when to be part of the system," said Carleen Waller of Nashville, Tenn., an alternate delegate.

"They have learned political accomodation, in the finest sense, and how to get what they want politically. You can't read this in a book. Women haven't lost their ideals but they've learned how to tie them into practical politics."

For the first time, women put together a cadre of their foremost feminists, including Rep. Bella Abzug of New York and Pennsylvania Secretary of State Delores Tucker, to negotiate directly with a presidential nominee about their concerns.

They accepted a compromise with Jimmy Carter over their demand for 50-50 representation at future conventions after winning a pledge that the party would lead the fight for equality and that Carter personally would campaign for the Equal Rights Amendent in 16 states which haven't ratified it.

The delegate selection compromise puts the party on record as "promoting" rather than "requiring" an equal male-female delegate split at future conventions.

Women also were successful in making sure that an abortion rights plank which they considered acceptable was included in the platform. The plank opposes a constitutional amendment banning abortion.

Women comprised 34 per cent of the delegates this year, compared with 40 per cent in 1972 and 13 per cent in 1968. They led 10 delegations. And they were more evident among convention speakers than ever before, with Rep. Barbara Jordan of Texas delivering a thunderously applauded keynote speech and Rep. Yvonne Braithwaite Burke of California giving a nominating address for Sen. Walter Mondale.

Even so, some women said there has been little substantive progress.

"It's going to be a lot harder than we thought," said Texan Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, who in 1972 became the first woman nominated for the vice presidency.

She said women got "visibility" at the 1972 convention but haven't been able to trade that for concrete gains.

Anne Zill, director of the Women's Campaign Fund, said, "Women are nowhere near the mainstream of politics and won't be for hundreds of years. Women are given cultural training that is devastating and women in politics will have an uphill battle for years."

But feminist Gloria Steinem said women are making strides.

Iowa woman first to leave West Point

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—She was one of the first to bring skirts, curls and the feminine touch to the "Long Gray Line," but after a brief taste of military life, Retsey Ronk of Council Bluffs decided West Point and a career in the Army just aren't the things she's looking for in life.

"It's as simple as that," said Retsey's mother, Mrs. Richard Ronk, explaining why her 18-year-old daughter became the first woman to quit West Point.

Retsey was one of 119 women admitted to West Point last week as the academy accepted women for the first time. She returned home Thursday.

Mrs. Ronk said she thinks it was the "regimentation," that turned her daughter off.

"It wasn't that she couldn't do it," said Mrs. Ronk, noting that Retsey is highly qualified on the basis of eduction.

"There are going to be women make it at West Point," said Mrs. Ronk. "I think Retsey could have made it if she had so desired. But she found out that a military career wasn't what she desired."

Mrs. Ronk said her daughter feels no animosity toward the academy.

"It took as much courage for her to come home as it did to go — maybe more," said Mrs. Ronk.

Retsey, who has interests in mathematics and law, will go to a regular college this fall, but she doesn't know where.

Retsey does not want to be interviewed, the mother added.

Jerry Bishop, program coordinator for the Sikeston Regional Diagnostic Clinic, escorted Mrs. Sharon Litton on a tour of the clinic's facilities Thursday during a campaign visit Mrs. Litton made on behalf of her husband Jerry, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator from Missouri.

Mrs. Litton visits city to campaign for her husband

Sharon "Sherri" Litton, wife of Sixth District Rep. Jerry Litton, who is seeeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in the Aug. 3 primary, said in Sikeston Thursday she supports her husband's stances on both the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) and the abortion issue.

Litton supports ERA and has said that women are not treated as equals under U.S. laws. He favors an amendment to the Constitution giving states the right to decide whether or not abortion should be legal in the state, but has said that if he were in the position of voting on the issue in Missouri, he would vote against it.

"We've always been partners," said blonde, compact Mrs. Litton, saying that she often agrees with her husband on the issues. "Jerry is a thinking man, some of his ideas are liberal and some conservative. He doesn't really fit into either category."

Mrs. Litton who was dressed in her husband's campaign colors of brown and white, and carried a purse with the sologan "Jerry for senator" carved into the leather. She says it has been a long, hot summer on the campaign trail but that she has enjoyed her travels throughout the state.

In Sikeston, Mrs. Litton visited the Heritage House, was guest of honor at a lunch at the Holiday Inn, and spent part of the day meeting with local businessmen. She also visited the Sikeston Diagnostic and the Convalescent Center.

She was scheduled to visit the Chaffee area today.

Mrs. Litton, 36, is a native of Chillicothe, where she and her husband are ranchers. She has a degree in business from Christian College in Columbia, now known as Columbia College.

The Littons have two children, a daughter, Linda, 13, and a 12-year-old son, Scott.

Experts fear effect of X-ray screening to find breast cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outside panel of experts wants the National Cancer Institute to halt routine X-ray screening of healthy women under age 50 for breast cancer. The panel contends the risks of the radiation may outweigh the benefits.

The tests, called mammography, have been given to about 250,000 women since 1972 under a program run jointly by the NCI and the American Cancer Society.

Health officials disagree about the risks of mammography. They plan to take up the issue at a meeting Monday.

NCI Director Dr. Frank Rauscher said the risks are likely to be "very small." But he said the benefits of screening "may not be as great as was thought when the project started."

However, an official of the American Cancer Society said Wednesday the society would be "extremely reluctant to discontinue projects that are bringing about the early detection of breast cancer in women, including women between 35 and 50."

Pat Nixon takes 1st steps since stroke

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Pat Nixon's first steps after her stroke were a "most signifigant sign of improvement," one of her doctors says.

Mrs. Nixon, recovering from the stroke suffered last week, walked on her own for the first time Thursday since she entered the hospital.

A hospital spokesman said doctors "remain optimistic that she has a good chance of making a total or near total recovery in three to four months."

"But I CAN'T go to the bathroom myself — this isn't our house!"

Today in U.S. history

Today is Friday, July 16, the 198th day of 1976. There are 168 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the Atomic Age began as the first atomic bomb was exploded over the desert in New Mexico.

On this date:

In 1790, the District of Columbia was established as the seat of the U.S. Government.

In 1918, Russia's Czar Nicholas II, his empress and their five children were executed by the Bolsheviks.

In 1951, King Leopold III of Belgium abdicated and was succeeded on the throne by his son, Baudouin.

In 1957, Marine Maj. John Glenn established a trans-continental speed record when he flew a jet from California to New York in 3 hours, 23 minutes.

In 1965, Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, who had died in London, was given a national funeral in Washington.

In 1974, Archbishop Makarios, who had been deposed as president of Cyprus, was on his way to New York to plead his cause before the United Nations.

Ten years ago: India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi ended a visit to Moscow with a promise of $1 billion in Soviet aid for her country.

Five years ago: The Nationalist Chinese Government on Taiwan expressed dismay at the announcement that President Richard Nixon would visit Communist China.

One year ago: It was disclosed that the Soviet Union had made a deal to buy vast quantities of wheat from two American grain export firms.

Thought for today: The way of a fool is right in his own eyes, but he that harkeneth unto counsel is wise. — the Bible.

Ann Landers

Illness discussion turns her stomach

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I moved to Kalamazoo, Mich., from Grand Rapids. Although the cities are not far apart it's like a different world.

I have always been involved with church and club work. In Grand Rapids, I was active in many groups and the women were lovely. I've met some fine women here in Kalamazoo but they are older and seem to be preoccupied with their illnesses and operations. I attended a lunch meeting this afternoon and the conversation was a rehash of everyone's surgery. One women told about her ovarian cyst, "the size of a lemon." Another woman described her tumor as "big as a grapefruit." A third lady, not to be outdone, said her fibroid was the largest the doctor had ever seen -- "as big as a watermelon."

Such topics are boring and unappetizing. I've tried without success to turn the conversations to more uplifting subjects. What do you suggest? -- New In Town.

Dear New: I've been to Kalamazoo and I can tell you there are many women there who can talk about something besides their operations.

If you are fed up with "organ recitals" (and who can blame you), find new friends. There are all kinds of women everywhere. People, like water, seek their own level.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the lady who asked if her unemployed husband has the right to ask for sex after 11:00 at night when she must be at work at 8:00 in the morning.

It seems to me the lady's problem isn't that her husband wants sex after 11:00 p.m., but that he is unemployed! How would she feel about his sex drive if he had a job? Would she still be too tired?

If so, she has a third problem -- she doesn't want sex ANY time, under ANY conditions. When does she think other working couples make love?

If Mrs. Too Tired really objects to the time of night, she could solve the problem very easily by suggesting that they get cozy the minute she walks in the door after work -- or the first thing in the morning. I'll bet he'd be delighted no matter what the hour. -- No Timekeeper.

Dear N.T.: "Getting cozy" the minute Mrs. Working Wife walks in the door is fine provided (1) they have no kids, (2) someone has at least started the supper.

Morning makes better sense, assuming, of course, that she is a canary and he is a rooster.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a divorced woman with a seven-year- old daughter. When she visits her father they sleep in the same bed. I don't like to make waves unless I am sure of my ground because my ex has a very short temper. When he blows his top he's like a crazy man.

Do you think this arrangement might be harmful to the child? I won't say anything till I hear from you. What do you say? Midwestern Mama

Dear Mama: I've said it dozens of times but I'll say it again. Children should not be permitted to sleep with their parents.

If you ex has an explosive temper, ask your pediatrician to write him a note stating the facts. If the sleeping together continues, see your lawyer about revising your husband's visiting privileges.

Democratic female delegates learn to scale political ropes

NEW YORK (AP) — Many women left this year's Democratic convention convinced they are coming of age politically and with a new appreciation of the art of compromise.

"Women delegates this year were much more politically mature about when to negotiate and when to be part of the system," said Carleen Waller of Nashville, Tenn., an alternate delegate.

"They have learned political accomodation, in the finest sense, and how to get what they want politically. You can't read this in a book. Women haven't lost their ideals but they've learned how to tie them into practical politics."

For the first time, women put together a cadre of their foremost feminists, including Rep. Bella Abzug of New York and Pennsylvania Secretary of State Delores Tucker, to negotiate directly with a presidential nominee about their concerns.

They accepted a compromise with Jimmy Carter over their demand for 50-50 representation at future conventions after winning a pledge that the party would lead the fight for equality and that Carter personally would campaign for the Equal Rights Amendent in 16 states which haven't ratified it.

The delegate selection compromise puts the party on record as "promoting" rather than "requiring" an equal male-female delegate split at future conventions.

Women also were successful in making sure that an abortion rights plank which they considered acceptable was included in the platform. The plank opposes a constitutional amendment banning abortion.

Women comprised 34 per cent of the delegates this year, compared with 40 per cent in 1972 and 13 per cent in 1968. They led 10 delegations. And they were more evident among convention speakers than ever before, with Rep. Barbara Jordan of Texas delivering a thunderously applauded keynote speech and Rep. Yvonne Braithwaite Burke of California giving a nominating address for Sen. Walter Mondale.

Even so, some women said there has been little substantive progress.

"It's going to be a lot harder than we thought," said Texan Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, who in 1972 became the first woman nominated for the vice presidency.

She said women got "visibility" at the 1972 convention but haven't been able to trade that for concrete gains.

Anne Zill, director of the Women's Campaign Fund, said, "Women are nowhere near the mainstream of politics and won't be for hundreds of years. Women are given cultural training that is devastating and women in politics will have an uphill battle for years."

But feminist Gloria Steinem said women are making strides.

Con. from page 1

For example, when we have a major fire, such as the recent Home Oil Co. truck fire, then we will have a major reserve of talent who can come in and help.

I think it will help too with the patrolman's image. The public views the police officer as one who apprehends him when he has done something wrong. If the patrolman comes to his house and helps save it when it is on fire, it will improve public relations.

The training will also be improved for the police personnel, in addition to fire training. They will be doing some refresher training in police work as well.

Q. What is the reaction of the police officers to the personnel shifts that will occur under the program and how do they feel about the demotion of Chief Leon Culp?

A. Chief Culp's new position is really a reassignment of his duties. Chief Culp has done an extremely good job, particularly in the areas of records and communications. He is very valuable in that area. His new position as captain of the Division of Records and Communications will be in that area.

Chief Culp and I discussed this a number of months ago and he was very agreeable, because the position of police chief is very demanding and is not just an 8-5 position. Chief Culp was hoping to slow down some and get into a position which would allow him more freedom in his off-dutyy time.

I think the changes in assignments have been fairly well received. The prime consideration of these changes has been to provide the shift commanders more responsibility, and to beef up a bit on the detective division to give it more manpower and to make the patrol division more responsible to the shift commanders.

Q. What kind of authority will Francis have over the police department?

A. The public safety director will have full authority over the general policy provisions of the city to operate and manage the police and fire departments. He will have more immediate authority over the police than the fire personnel. Chief Vernon Morris is doing a good job and the fire department will need less supervision than the police department.

Francis will be immediately responsible to me for the selection of personnel and for developing policy recommendations and proposed budgets, just as if is with Director of Public Works Bill Whitlock.

The public safety director will work under the general supervision of the city manager.

A Start Living Now Crusade conducted by the Rev. Jim Hylton, an evangelist from West Plains, will begin Sunday and continue through July 25 at Trinity Baptist Church, Highway 61 North, accroding to the Rev. Tom Geers, pastor.

A native of Norwood in the southern Missouri Ozarks, the Rev. Mr. Hylton pastored churches for 17 years -- beginning at age 17 in 1952 and endin in 1969 after six years as pastor of First Baptist Church in West Plains -- before entering the full-time evangelistic field.

Many wondering what being 'born again' means

NEW YORK (AP) — Since Jimmy Carter says it has happened to him, many people are wondering just what being "born again" means. Those versed in the New Testament know, of course, but studies show there's considerable illiteracy in that area these days, even among Christians.

Some don't understand — or misjudge — the concept.

Like various other religious terms, it is "puzzling to modern minds," says the Rev. Dr. Henlee Barnette of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Lousville, Ky. "Even some Christians have vague notions as to what the phrase actually means."

Sometimes, they associate it only with revival-tent emotionalism or a momentary, crowd-induced "high," bereft of rationality. But that wasn't it's original Biblical context. Instead, it was the subject of a thoughtful, private conversation between Jesus and a fellow rabbi, Nicodemus.

"That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spriit is spirit," Jesus says in John 3:6-7. "Do not marvel that I said, 'You mst be born anew'."

Actually it's sort of a point of discovery about a person's place and purpose in life, how it all hangs together in the province of God, has direction and makes sense personally and universally, and an inner affirmation of it.

It's a little like Archimedes realizing the law of material mass and exclaiming, "Eureka! — I have found it!"

In spiritual rebirth, a person gains "a whole new perspective of the world," says Dr. Barnette, a professor of Christian ethics. "While it is the same old world, he sees it through new eyes."

It is an act of mind, will and emotion — and a definite new commitment to its impact. It can happen suddenly or through an extended period of cumulative experiences, deepening awareness and determination of the will. It is an awakening to meaning, in God's universal design; it is being "saved" from futility and meaninglessness.

"All in all, it's a perfectly natural experience that answers perfectly normal needs ... It is being called by God and responding.'

'His Land' to be shown

"His Land", a one-hour color feature motion picture depicting the thrilling story of Israel from ancient to modern times, will be shown at 6 p.m. Sunday at First Church of the Nazarene, Highway 61 North, the Rev. Eldon Russell, pastor, has announced.

In the company of Cliff Barrows and Cliff Richard, England's popular star who sings a number of Ralph Carmicahel songs, viewers are taken along the same paths traveled by Jesus and the prophets -- from Galilee to Jerusalem and the Mount of Olives -- and mingle with the people of modern Israel as they work, play and build a nation.

Words of scripture come to life as the viewer becomes a witness to the fact that out of death and destruction is emerging a new Land, a "Land of milk and honey," where future climactic events will take place.

Preus disqualifies self in heresy case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Jacob A.O. Preus, president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, has disqualified himself from consideration of a heresy case that led to the formation of Concordia Seminary-in-Exile here.

The Rev. Dr. John H. Tietjen was suspended in 1973 as president of the Concordia Seminary in Clayton for preaching false doctrine.

Dr. Preus said, "It is a well-known fact that I have been publicly identified as one who has been in disagreement with Dr. Tietjen throughout the controversy in the synod. I have come to the conclusion that any further action ought not to be decided upon by myself."

Reform issue makes Blessit a happy loser

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)- Evangelist Arthur Blessitt, who had made a bid for the Democratic presidential nomination after carrying a big wooden cross halfway around the world, says he is a happy loser because spiritual and moral refo.' has become a major campaign issue anyhow.

The Baptist street minister, 35, told a statewide youth rally that the "most important thing is for the candidates to provide moral and spiritual leadership in the nation."

In indirect reference to Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter, Blessitt said "we need a born-again, soul-winning witness in the White House."

Beginning at Sunset Strip in Hollywood, Calif., in 1969, Blessitt has carried a 90-pound wooden cross for 12,5000 miles through 25 countries on three continents.

He said he has been jailed, shot at and beaten with rocks and sticks because of his stand for Christ but "I haven't met anyone who's having more fun than I'm having." He said he'll resume his cross-carrying odyssey in August in Hawaii, and go through Australia, New Zealand and southwest Pacific islands.

THE BIBLE

No. 248. Jeremiah Becomes A Prophet

Jeremiah, the son of Hilkiah, who lived in the town of Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, was selected when he was a young lad to be God's spokesman. At first, he protested that he was too young. Then he recounted what the Lord had told him.

"But the Lord said unto me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak. Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord." (Jeremiah 1:7-8)

"Then the Lord put forth his hand and touched my mouth. And the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth. See, I have this day set thee over the nations, and over the kingdoms, to root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant." (Jeremiah 1:9-10)

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Con. from page 1

For example, when we have a major fire, such as the recent Home Oil Co. truck fire, then we will have a major reserve of talent who can come in and help.

I think it will help too with the patrolman's image. The public views the police officer as one who apprehends him when he has done something wrong. If the patrolman comes to his house and helps save it when it is on fire, it will improve public relations.

The training will also be improved for the police personnel, in addition to fire training. They will be doing some refresher training in police work as well.

Q What is the reaction of the police officers to the personnel shifts that will occur under the program and how do they feel about the demotion of Chief Leon Culp?

A. Chief Culp's new position is really a reassignment of his duties. Chief Culp has done an extremely good job, particularly in the areas of records and communications. He is very valuable in that area. His new position as captain of the Division of Records and Communications will be in that area.

Chief Culp and I discussed this a number of months ago and he was very agreeable, because the position of police chief is very demanding and is not just an 8-5 position. Chief Culp was hoping to slow down some and get into a position which would allow him more freedom in his off-dutyy time.

I think the changes in assignments have been fairly well received. The prime consideration of these changes has been to provide the shift commanders more responsibility, and to beef up a bit on the detective division to give it more manpower and to make the patrol division more responsible to the shift commanders.

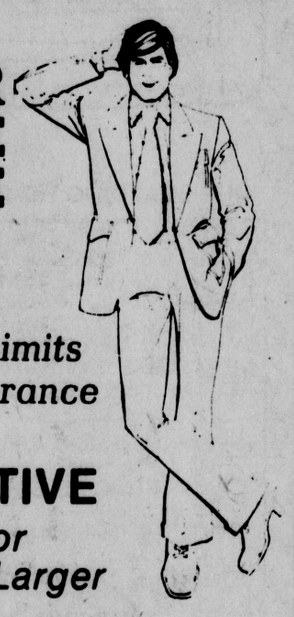

Q What kind of authority will Francis have over the police department?

A. The public safety director will have full authority over the general policy provisions of the city to operate and manage the police and fire departments. He will have more immediate authority over the police than the fire personnel. Chief Vernon Morris is doing a good job and the fire department will need less supervision than the police department.

Francis will be immediately responsible to me for the selection of personnel and for developing policy recommendations and proposed budgets, just as it is with Director of Public Works Bill Whitlock.

The public safety director will work under the general supervision of the city manager.

Jr. Babe Ruth Stars rally to win second game in District

BERTRAND — With its back to the wall, the Sikeston 13 to 15 year old Junior Babe Ruth All-Star team managed to come up with five runs and claim a come-from-behind 6-4 District tournament victory over stubborn Dexter.

Just a few days previously Dexter had meekly bowed to Sikeston 19-1 in a practice game, but the Stoddard County team provided much better competition in the second go 'round. With Lance Espey holding Sikeston to one hit and one run in the first six innings, the Dexter bunch appeared to be on the brink of the tourney's biggest upset. But then a collection of Dexter walks and errors and a pair of clutch extra-base hits by Russ Deal and Derek Braden, gave the Sikeston team the ingredients for the all-important rally.

Espey was tough all night, finishing with eight strikeouts and allowing only three hits. Meanwhile, Dexter touched Sikeston starter Jeff Young for single tallies in the first and third and a pair of runs in the fifth. Up until that fateful last frame the only Sikeston safety was a run-scoring single by thirdsacker Jay Cox in the third inning.

Espey, despite his control over the Sikeston batters, had trouble throwing strikes all night long. Entering the seventh the Dexter moundsman had already thrown over 140 pitches and the extensive work began to take its toll. Lasater led off with a walk. After an infield popup, Burgess walked and a run scored when the Dexter firstbaseman fumbled a ball hit by Cox. Russ Deal tied it with a double to left. Then Lembert walked. Derek Braden, who had erred twice in the game, made up for his miscues by belting a long drive to left for a double, driving in the winning and an insurance run. Young, who pitched a fine six-hitter himself, retired the disappointed Dexter team one, two three in the last of the seventh to receive credit for the complete-game victory. Young didn't fan as many batters as Espey, 6, but the Sikeston righthander issued only one free pass. By contrast, Espey walked 13. In this case, 13 was very unlucky for the upset-minded Dexter pitcher and his teammates.

Sikeston's next game will be Sunday evening at 6 p.m. against the winner of Saturday's Tri-County-New Madrid game.

Morehouse rallies to whip Benton

MOREHOUSE--Morehouse women's fastpitch softball team edged Benton in a high scoring affair 12-11 here Thursday night.

Morehouse had to come from an 11-7 deficit in the home half of the seventh inning to turn the trick. A five run explosion deflated Benton's hopes of victory. Bonnie Schurhart was the winning pitcher.

Morehouse will hold a women and men mixed softball tournament starting Saturday afternoon at 12:00 p.m. There will be a women's game followed by a men's game each night.

Sayers will work hard at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Gale Sayers, former Chicago Bears great and two-time All-American running back at Kansas, takes over Aug. 1 as athletic director of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Although best known for his football abilities, Sayers, 33, says he will concentrate on all sports at Southern Illinois.

"I'm interested in the total program, not just football," Sayers told a news conference Thursday.

"I plan to spend a lot of time on the road during the first six months, telling people about the program," he said. "This is the only way we can get our people behind us. I want to get all our alumni behind our programs."

Sayers, a member of the University of Kansas athletic staff for the past 3½ years, will replace Doug Weaver, who resigned earlier this year to become athletic director at Georgia Tech.

Southern Illinois has an enrollment of 21,200 and is a member of the Missouri Valley Converence. It has had its most success in basketball, gymnastics and baseball.

An Omaha, Neb., native, Sayers was an All-American at Kansas in 1963 and 1964.

Many wondering what being 'born again' means

NEW YORK (AP) — Since Jimmy Carter says it has happened to him, many people are wondering just what being "born again" means. Those versed in the New Testament know, of course, but studies show there's considerable illiteracy in that area these days, even among Christians.

Some don't understand — or misjudge — the concept.

Like various other religious terms, it is "puzzling to modern minds," says the Rev. Dr. Henlee Barnette of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Lousville, Ky. "Even some Christians have vague notions as to what the phrase actually means."

Sometimes, they associate it only with revival-tent emotionalism or a momentary, crowd-induced "high," bereft of rationality. But that wasn't it's original Biblical context. Instead, it was the subject of a thoughtful, private conversation between Jesus and a fellow rabbi, Nicodemus.

"That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spriit is spirit," Jesus says in John 3:6-7. "Do not marvel that I said, 'You mst be born anew'."

Actually it's sort of a point of discovery about a person's place and purpose in life, how it all hangs together in the province of God, has direction and makes sense personally and universally, and an inner affirmation of it.

It's a little like Archimedes realizing the law of material mass and exclaiming, "Eureka! — I have found it!"

In spiritual rebirth, a person gains "a whole new perspective of the world," says Dr. Barnette, a professor of Christian ethics. "While it is the same old world, he sees it through new eyes."

It is an act of mind, will and emotion — and a definite new commitment to its impact. It can happen suddenly or through an extended period of cumulative experiences, deepening awareness and determination of the will. It is an awakening to meaning, in God's universal design; it is being "saved" from futility and meaninglessness.

"All in all, it's a perfectly natural experience that answers perfectly normal needs ... It is being called by God and responding.'

'His Land' to be shown

"His Land", a one-hour color feature motion picture depicting the thrilling story of Israel from ancient to modern times, will be shown at 6 p.m. Sunday at First Church of the Nazarene, Highway 61 North, the Rev. Eldon Russell, pastor, has announced.

In the company of Cliff Barrows and Cliff Richard, England's popular star who sings a number of Ralph Carmicahel songs, viewers are taken along the same paths traveled by Jesus and the prophets -- from Galilee to Jerusalem and the Mount of Olives -- and mingle with the people of modern Israel as they work, play and build a nation.

Words of scripture come to life as the viewer becomes a witness to the fact that out of death and destruction is emerging a new Land, a "Land of milk and honey," where future climactic events will take place.

Preus disqualifies self in heresy case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Jacob A.O. Preus, president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, has disqualified himself from consideration of a heresy case that led to the formation of Concordia Seminary-in-Exile here.

The Rev. Dr. John H. Tietjen was suspended in 1973 as president of the Concordia Seminary in Clayton for preaching false doctrine.

Dr. Preus said, "It is a well-known fact that I have been publicly identified as one who has been in disagreement with Dr. Tietjen throughout the controversy in the synod. I have come to the conclusion that any further action ought not to be decided upon by myself."

Reform issue makes Blessit a happy loser

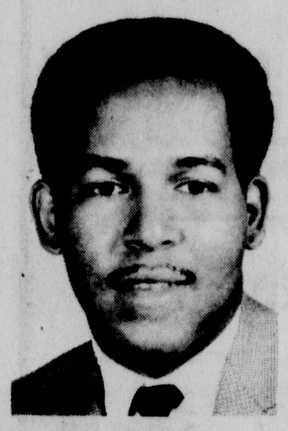

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)- Evangelist Arthur Blessitt, who had made a bid for the Democratic presidential nomination after carrying a big wooden cross halfway around the world, says he is a happy loser because spiritual and moral refo.. has become a major campaign issue anyhow.

The Baptist street minister, 35, told a statewide youth rally that the "most important thing is for the candidates to provide moral and spiritual leadership in the nation."

In indirect reference to Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter, Blessitt said "we need a born-again, soul-winning witness in the White House."

Beginning at Sunset Strip in Hollywood, Calif., in 1969, Blessitt has carried a 90-pound wooden cross for 12,5000 miles through 25 countries on three continents.

He said he has been jailed, shot at and beaten with rocks and sticks because of his stand for Christ but "I haven't met anyone who's having more fun than I'm having." He said he'll resume his cross-carrying odyssey in August in Hawaii, and go through Australia, New Zealand and southwest Pacific islands.

No. 248. Jeremiah Becomes A Prophet

Jeremiah, the son of Hilkiah, who lived in the town of Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, was selected when he was a young lad to be God's spokesman. At first, he protested that he was too young. Then he recounted what the Lord had told him.

"But the Lord said unto me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak. Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord." (Jeremiah 1:7-8)

"Then the Lord put forth his hand and touched my mouth. And the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth. See, I have this day set thee over the nations, and over the kingdoms, to root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant." (Jeremiah 1:9-10)

ABA not sure of merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Although merger talks "are not going as well as we'd hoped," four American Basketball Association teams have placed $1 million each in escrow accounts as a first step towards admission to the National Basketball Association.

"The merger talks are not going as well as we'd hoped but as well as expected," said Indiana Pacers executive Bill Eason, but he added, "We have met the NBA requirement for the $1 million. That is, it is in the bank."

He said he hoped for a final agreement within a few days.

The deposits Thursday were strictly paper transactions for the New York Nets, Denver Nuggets, San Antonio Spurs and Pacers.

A second payment of $2 million each is due Sept. 15.

There were unconfirmed reports that one of the ABA teams had experienced some problems in raising sufficient funds for the initial payment.

Finalizing of the merger agreement has been slowed because of problems with the settlement with owners of the ABA Kentucky and Utah teams, which were disbanded, and the final settlement of the NBA Players Association suit, which still must be signed by both sides.

Saints play at home Saturday

The Sikeston Saints have really turned things around. Losers in five of their first six starts, the Saints have now surged to seven wins in a row and a third-place standing in the Bi-State League. They'll try to improve that record with a repeat of last Wednesday's 9-4 win over Ste. Genevieve when they take on the Yanks in a home game at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

The starting Saints pitcher hasn't been determined yet, although it probably will be righty Don Miller (2-0). If Miller can't go, the task will fall to either Rich Blankenship or Mike Foster.

The Saints, who struggled so terribly in the early going, have batted over .330 during the streak, outscoring their opponents 69-14.

The Saints lineup for Saturday' match-up will look like this:

1st Rick Eisenbach, 3b	(.429)
2nd Bill Schatzley 2B	(.333)
3rd Grant Dambach, ss	(.346)
4th Les Schatzley, rf	(.350)

Jaycees eat pizza

NATIONAL LEAGUE

The Jaycees upended Pizza Inn 9-7 and A & B got past Security National 10-7.

The Jaycees came from behind in the last two innings to overhaul the league leaders. Both team had a four-run third inning but Pizza Inn pushed across two runs in the fourth to take the lead. The Jaycees battled back for two runs in the fifth inning to tie the game at 6-6 and rallied for three in the sixth. Pizza Inn scored a lone run in the six.

Security National and A & B scored two runs apiece in the first inning but A & B plated five runs in the second inning and Security National was never able to cut the lead.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Nunelee defeated Bridger 17-7 and Fabick edged First National 11-10.

Nunnelee scored seven runs in each of the first and fourth innings to walk away with the victory. The only bright spot for Bridger was a five-run fourth inning.

Fabick and First National engaged in a see-saw battle from the beginning. First National fell behind after the second inning and never could overcome a six-run rally by Fabick in the third inning.

MUSIAL LEAGUE

Rotary jumped to a quick 2-0 lead after the first inning and added five more in the second and Collins was never able to recover.

Kingsway scored six runs in the second and nine in the fourth to demolish Flower Basket 19-8. A five-run fourth inning by Flower Basket proved to be to little.

Joe Ferguson beats San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — St. Louis Cardinal catcher Joe Ferguson, who uses a big bat, came up with the big hit to spark the Cards to a 2-1 victory over the San Diego Padres.

"With a big bat it's a lot easier to go to right field with pitches away from you," said Ferguson.

His line double to right scored Don Kessinger from second in the ninth inning for the decisive run Thursday night.

Ferguson, who uses a 38-ounce bat that is 37 inches long, reached out and drove his double over Padre right fielder Dave Whitfield's head to break up a 1-1 deadlock.

The blow came off Padre left-hander Brent Strom, who engaged in a pitching duel with Cardinal right-hander Bob Forsch until he got into trouble in the ninth and gave way to reliever Butch Metzger.

Cardinal shortstop Kessinger led off the inning with an infield single and was sacrificed to second by Lou Brock. Strom then intentionally walked Ted Simmons to set the stage for Ferguson.

"The pitch to Ferguson was a good one," lamented Strom, who described it as a slider down and in.

"He just went down and got it," said Strom. "I was trying to get the ground ball for the double play but he got under it and that was it."

DON'T LET THIS SUMMER'S ELECTRIC BILLS COME AS A SHOCK.

Your electric rate goes up for the five summer months starting in June. The cost for the first 600 KWH will remain the same, but the bottom step will increase beginning with the June bills.

THESE ARE SOME THINGS THAT CAN BE DONE TO CUT THE "SHOCK" OUT OF SUMMER BILLS.

1. Let your thermostat set - the difference between 72° and 78° can decrease your KWH usage considerably.
2. Ventilate the attic. Provide vents of proper size and location to insure attic ventilation by natural air flow.
3. Wehn installing a new roof, choose a light-colored roof shingle.
4. Keep windows and doors closed when your cooling system is operating.
5. Don't cool rooms that are not in use. Close vents and keep the doors closed.

Jr. Babe Ruth Stars rally to win second game in District

BERTRAND — With its back to the wall, the Sikeston 13 to 15 year old Junior Babe Ruth All-Star team managed to come up with five runs and claim a come-from-behind 6-4 District tournament victory over stubborn Dexter.

Just a few days previously Dexter had meekly bowed to Sikeston 19-1 in a practice game, but the Stoddard County team provided much better competition in the second go 'round. With Lance Espey holding Sikeston to one hit and one run in the first six innings, the Dexter bunch appeared to be on the brink of the tourney's biggest upset. But then a collection of Dexter walks and errors and a pair of clutch extra-base hits by Russ Deal and Derek Braden, gave the Sikeston team the ingredients for the all-important rally.

Espey was tough all night, finishing with eight strikeouts and allowing only three hits. Meanwhile, Dexter touched Sikeston starter Jeff Young for single tallies in the first and third and a pair of runs in the fifth. Up until that fateful last frame the only Sikeston safety was a run-scoring single by thirdsacker Jay Cox in the third inning.

Espey, despite his control over the Sikeston batters, had trouble throwing strikes all night long. Entering the seventh the Dexter moundsman had already thrown over 140 pitches and the extensive work began to take its toll. Lasater led off with a walk. After an infield popup, Burgess walked and a run scored when the Dexter firstbaseman fumbled a ball hit by Cox. Russ Deal tied it with a double to left. Then Lembert walked. Derek Braden, who had erred twice in the game, made up for his miscues by belting a long drive to left for a double, driving in the winning and an insurance run. Young, who pitched a fine six-hitter himself, retired the disappointed Dexter team one, two three in the last of the seventh to receive credit for the complete-game victory. Young didn't fan as many batters as Espey, 6, but the Sikeston righthander issued only one free pass. By contrast, Espey walked 13. In this case, 13 was very unlucky for the upset-minded Dexter pitcher and his teammates.

Sikeston's next game will be Sunday evening at 6 p.m. against the winner of Saturday's Tri-County-New Madrid game.

Morehouse rallies to whip Benton

MOREHOUSE--Morehouse women's fastpitch softball team edged Benton in a high scoring affair 12-11 here Thursday night.

Morehouse had to come from an 11-7 deficit in the home half of the seventh inning to turn the trick. A five run explosion deflated Benton's hopes of victory. Bonnie Schurhart was the winning pitcher.

Morehouse will hold a women and men mixed softball tournament starting Saturday afternoon at 12:00 p.m. There will be a women's game followed by a men's game each night.

Sayers will work hard at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Gale Sayers, former Chicago Bears great and two-time All-American running back at Kansas, takes over Aug. 1 as athletic director of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Although best known for his football abilities, Sayers, 33, says he will concentrate on all sports at Southern Illinois.

"I'm interested in the total program, not just football," Sayers told a news conference Thursday.

"I plan to spend a lot of time on the road during the first six months, telling people about the program," he said. "This is the only way we can get our people behind us. I want to get all our alumni behind our programs."

Sayers, a member of the University of Kansas athletic staff for the past 3½ years, will replace Doug Weaver, who resigned earlier this year to become athletic director at Georgia Tech.

Southern Illinois has an enrollment of 21,200 and is a member of the Missouri Valley Converence. It has had its most success in basketball, gymnastics and baseball.

An Omaha, Neb., native, Sayers was an All-American at Kansas in 1963 and 1964.

New entrants are: Men's: Carl Ross, James Stearns, Sam Bowman, Robert Dempster, and Wilbur Ensor; doubles: Sam Bowman, James Stearnes, Wilbur Ensor and Bill Van Horne; women's: Doris Stearns, Catherine Ann Cook, and Marjorie Hocker; and boys: Charles Yanson.

Five boys ranging between the ages of 13 and 17 had quite an adventure Monday, when they made a long planned trip to Big Springs on bicycles. As the distance was more than 100 miles and there were only four bicycles for the five boys, the trip was quite an undertaking. It was necessary to push the bicycles up some of the higher hills, but the boys reached their destination about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, having left Sikeston at 1 a.m. The Rev. and Mrs. Lem Council drove to Big Springs Tuesday and were accompanied home that evening by the boys and their wheels and other equipment which were brought back on a trailer attached to the autmobile. The boys who made the trip were: Bryon McElroy, Roy Wagner, jr., Leo Comstock, Bois Reed Council, and James Martin.

Bridger scored 16 runs on only four hits to demolish Sikeston Motor 16-6. Bridger led 4-0 after the first two inning and kept the pressure on with six runs in the fifth inning.

Marks Food Mart and Barkett's EZ Mart had the closets game of the night with Marks coming out on top 5-4.

ABA not sure of merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Although merger talks "are not going as well as we'd hoped," four American Basketball Association teams have placed $1 million each in escrow accounts as a first step towards admission to the National Basketball Association.

"The merger talks are not going as well as we'd hoped but as well as expected," said Indiana Pacers executive Bill Eason, but he added, "We have met the NBA requirement for the $1 million. That is, it is in the bank."

He said he hoped for a final agreement within a few days.

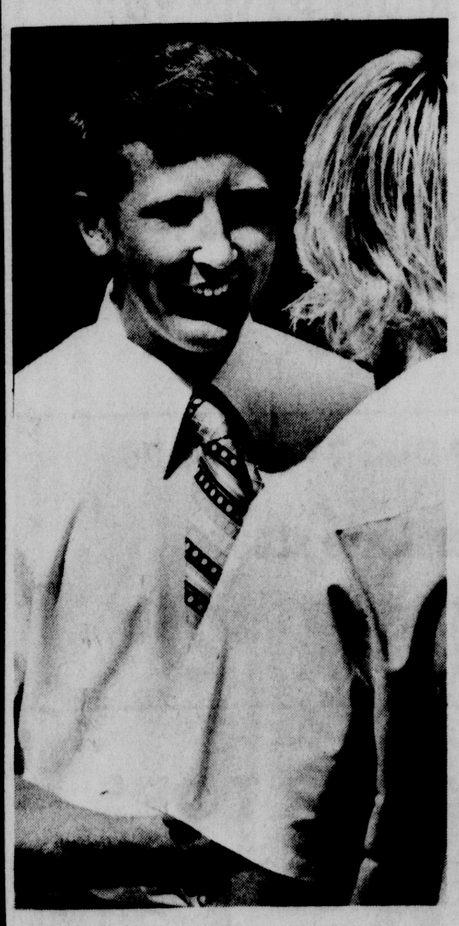

The deposits Thursday were strictly paper transactions for the New York Nets, Denver Nuggets, San Antonio Spurs and Pacers.

A second payment of $2 million each is due Sept. 15.

There were unconfirmed reports that one of the ABA teams had experienced some problems in raising sufficient funds for the initial payment.

Finalizing of the merger agreement has been slowed because of problems with the settlement with owners of the ABA Kentucky and Utah teams, which were disbanded, and the final settlement of the NBA Players Association suit, which still must be signed by both sides.

Saints play at home Saturday

The Sikeston Saints have really turned things around. Losers in five of their first six starts, the Saints have now surged to seven wins in a row and a third-place standing in the Bi-State League. They'll try to improve that record with a repeat of last Wednesday's 9-4 win over Ste. Genevieve when they take on the Yanks in a home game at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

The starting Saints pitcher hasn't been determined yet, although it probably will be righty Don Miller (2-0). If Miller can't go, the task will fall to either Rich Blankenship or Mike Foster.

The Saints, who struggled so terribly in the early going, have batted over .330 during the streak, outscoring their opponents 69-14.

The Saints lineup for Saturday' match-up will look like this:

1st Rick Eisenbach, 3b	(.429)
2nd Bill Schatzley 2B	(.333)
3rd Grant Dambach, ss	(.346)
4th Les Schatzley, rf	(.350)
5th Jim Saulter, 1b	(.298)
6th Stan Hall, dh	(.375)
7th Charlie Miller, c	(.222)
8th Bruce Lawrence, cf	(.214)
9th Mitch Walker, lf	(.267)

Jaycees eat pizza

NATIONAL LEAGUE

The Jaycees upended Pizza Inn 9-7 and A & B got past Security National 10-7.

The Jaycees came from behind in the last two innings to overhaul the league leaders. Both team had a four-run third inning but Pizza Inn pushed across two runs in the fourth to take the lead. The Jaycees battled back for two runs in the fifth inning to tie the game at 6-6 and rallied for three in the sixth. Pizza Inn scored a lone run in the six.

Security National and A & B scored two runs apiece in the first inning but A & B plated five runs in the second inning and Security National was never able to cut the lead.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Nunelee defeated Bridger 17-7 and Fabick edged First National 11-10.

Nunnelee scored seven runs in each of the first and fourth innings to walk away with the victory. The only bright spot for Bridger was a five-run fourth inning.

Fabick and First National engaged in a see-saw battle from the beginning. First National fell behind after the second inning and never could overcome a six-run rally by Fabick in the third inning.

MUSIAL LEAGUE

Rotary jumped to a quick 2-0 lead after the first inning and added five more in the second and Collins was never able to recover.

Kingsway scored six runs in the second and nine in the fourth to demolish Flower Basket 19-8. A five-run fourth inning by Flower Basket proved to be to little.

Joe Ferguson beats San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — St. Louis Cardinal catcher Joe Ferguson, who uses a big bat, came up with the big hit to spark the Cards to a 2-1 victory over the San Diego Padres.

"With a big bat it's a lot easier to go to right field with pitches away from you," said Ferguson.

His line double to right scored Don Kessinger from second in the ninth inning for the decisive run Thursday night.

Ferguson, who uses a 38-ounce bat that is 37 inches long, reached out and drove his double over Padre right fielder Dave Whitfield's head to break up a 1-1 deadlock.

The blow came off Padre lefthander Brent Strom, who engaged in a pitching duel with Cardinal right-hander Bob Forsch until he got into trouble in the ninth and gave way to reliever Butch Metzger.

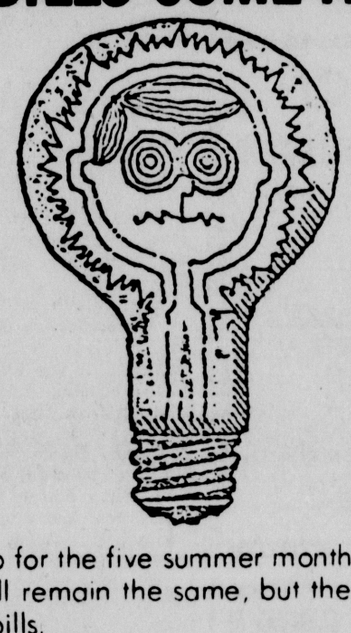

Cardinal shortstop Kessinger led off the inning with an infield single and was sacrificed to second by Lou Brock. Strom then intentionally walked Ted Simmons to set the stage for Ferguson.

"The pitch to Ferguson was a good one," lamented Strom, who described it as a slider down and in.

"He just went down and got it," said Strom. "I was trying to get the ground ball for the double play but he got under it and that was it."

DON'T LET THIS SUMMER'S ELECTRIC BILLS COME AS A SHOCK.

Your electric rate goes up for the five summer months starting in June. The cost for the first 600 KWH will remain the same, but the bottom step will increase beginning with the June bills.

THESE ARE SOME THINGS THAT CAN BE DONE TO CUT THE "SHOCK" OUT OF SUMMER BILLS.

1. Let your thermostat set - the difference between 72° and 78° can decrease your KWH usage considerably.
2. Ventilate the attic. Provide vents of proper size and location to insure attic ventilation by natural air flow.
3. Wehn installing a new roof, choose a light-colored roof shingle.
4. Keep windows and doors closed when your cooling system is operating.
5. Don't cool rooms that are not in use. Close vents and keep the doors closed.

For Parents 'n Teachers

This section of The Mini Page is especially designed for teachers and parents to use in teaching this week's issue. Do not let the brevity of this article be misleading. It is intended to give you a very brief overview of a very complex country! It will be helpful in discussing the map on page 2.

Canada has 10 provinces. The Maritime Provinces are on the Atlantic Coast. These include Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Maritime means "sea." Fishing and forestry are big businesses here. These provinces are sparsely populated. The province of Quebec produces a lot of hydro-electric power. Lumbering and mining are important. Montreal is the largest city in Canada. Ontario has more people and more wealth than any other province. Manufacturing and trade are important. Ottawa, the nation's capital, is in Ontario. The Prairie Provinces include Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The southern part of these provinces have great wheat farms. In British Columbia fishing and forestry are important. The Yukon and Northwest Territories do not have as much power as the Provincial governments. Minerals, hunting and trapping and fishing are important here. Winter temperatures can go as low as 65 degrees below in some sections.

See the map of Canada. There are about 17,000 Eskimos living in the Northwest Territory, Northern Quebec and Labrador. About 40 percent of the Canadian people are from a British background. People with a French background make up 30 percent of the population. Most of the people who speak French live in the province of Quebec.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police is Canada's federal police force. It handles counterfeiting cases, problems of national security and murder.

Canadian Government Office of Tourism.

Unlike our FBI, the Mounties also handle traffic. Today's Mounties fly planes, pilot ships, and drive snowmobiles and cars. A very few ride horses and wear red jackets for special ceremonies, such as the Changing of the Guard Ceremony at the Parliament building in Ottawa, (pictured above).

See the Canadian Indian in ceremonial dress. There are around 200,000 Indians in Canada today.

Indians were the first Canadians. The name "Canada" comes from an Indian word. Today, 75 out of every 100 Indians live on 2,200 reserves or special lands set aside for them. The Indians are hunters, guides and farmers. Other Indians live in cities.

The Malone Theatre will be closed for a day after Sunday night's performance so that a new RCA high fidelity sound system may be installed.

Late registrations in the city-wide tennis tournament Thursday brought the total entrants to 17 in the men's singles division, nine in the doubles, four in the women's, and five in the boys'. New entrants are: Men's: Carl Ross, James Stearns, Sam Bowman, Robert Dempster, and Wilbur Ensor; doubles: Sam Bowman, James Stearnes, Wilbur Ensor and Bill Van Horne; women's: Doris Stearns, Catherine Ann Cook, and Marjorie Hocker; and boys: Charles Yanson.

Five boys ranging between the ages of 13 and 17 had quite an adventure Monday, when they made a long planned trip to Big Springs on bicycles. As the distance was more than 100 miles and there were only four bicycles for the five boys, the trip was quite an undertaking. It was necessary to push the bicycles up some of the higher hills, but the boys reached their destination about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, having left Sikeston at 1 a.m. The Rev. and Mrs. Lem Council drove to Big Springs Tuesday and were accompanied home that evening by the boys and their wheels and other equipment which were brought back on a trailer attached to the autmobile. The boys who made the trip were: Bryon McElroy, Roy Wagner, jr., Leo Comstock, Bois Reed Council, and James Martin.

Work was started last week on a new house H. D. Lambert is building on a North Kingshighway lot north of the new Billy Keith home.

Just seven weeks from today -- September 4 -- the school bells will ring again and some 3,500 pupils, elementary and high school, will go back to school for the 1956-57 school year. This building, begun last August, will represent an approximate cost of $200,000 fully equipped. Principal for the Matthews school will be Harold Jones, who has been with the school system some time and has been the audio visual director.

Steven Keith is the name chosen for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gately, born Thursday at the Delta Community Hospital.

Babies born today were: A baby girl for Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Gardner of New Madrid; a baby girl ffor Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wayne Holland of Charleston; and a daughter for Mr. and Mrs. Danny Heacox of Route 4.

Meet Our Neighbors in Canada!

Who Are the Kids Next Door?

Canadian children, like those in the U. S., play baseball in the summer.

Our next-door neighbors in Canada are hosting the Olympics.

Seventy-five out of 100 Canadians live within 100 miles of the U.S. border.

The children who live in Canada are very much like us.

Canadian kids watch a lot of TV, including some American shows, such as "Sesame Street," "The Electric Co." and "Mash."

They dress like we do. Jeans are just as popular there as they are here.

They like to eat the food we eat. Hot dogs and hamburgers are favorites.

Their weather is much like that of the northern U.S. They also have four seasons. It snows a lot in some areas.

They like football, soccer, baseball and other sports that we like.

In some ways, the Canadians are different.

Some of the kids next door are Eskimos (or Inuits as they are called in their native language). Inuits live in houses equipped with many of the electrical appliances that your family has. Most dogsleds have been replaced by snowmobiles and airplanes.

At one time, Canada was a colony belonging to Britain. Today she is independent and governs herself. Queen Elizabeth II is the ceremonial head of the government.

The Canadians call the head of the government the prime minister and not the president.

Canadians do not live in "states." Their country is divided into 10 provinces and two territories. The territories are huge stretches of land close to the Arctic. Not many people live in this part of Canada.

Canada has more land than the U.S., but only a tenth as many people.

Maybe someday you will get to visit the kids next door.

Look carefully and you will see a bilingual Little League sign (petites ligues). Bilingual means "in two languages."

Many Canadian kids speak French as well as English. They might study both languages in school. Some speak only French. Most speak English. For 30 percent of Canadians, French is the "mother tongue" or the language they learn first.

Karsh, Ottawa

The head of the government is Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

For Parents 'n Teachers

This section of The Mini Page is especially designed for teachers and parents to use in teaching this week's issue. Do not let the brevity of this article be misleading. It is intended to give you a very brief overview of a very complex country! It will be helpful in discussing the map on page 2.

Canada has 10 provinces. The Maritime Provinces are on the Atlantic Coast. These include Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Maritime means "sea." Fishing and forestry are big businesses here. These provinces are sparsely populated. The province of Quebec produces a lot of hydro-electric power. Lumbering and mining are important. Montreal is the largest city in Canada. Ontario has more people and more wealth than any other province. Manufacturing and trade are important. Ottawa, the nation's capital, is in Ontario. The Prairie Provinces include Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The southern part of these provinces have great wheat farms. In British Columbia fishing and forestry are important. The Yukon and Northwest Territories do not have as much power as the Provincial governments. Minerals, hunting and trapping and fishing are important here. Winter temperatures can go as low as 65 degrees below in some sections.

Map, Mounties and Natives

Map department of Energy, Mines and Resources External Affairs, Canada.

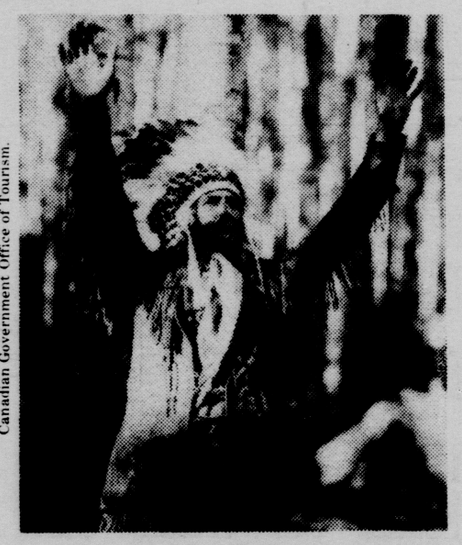

See the map of Canada. There are about 17,000 Eskimos living in the Northwest Territory, Northern Quebec and Labrador. About 40 percent of the Canadian people are from a British background. People with a French background make up 30 percent of the population. Most of the people who speak French live in the province of Quebec.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police is Canada's federal police force. It handles counterfeiting cases, problems of national security and murder.

Canadian Government Office of Tourism.

Unlike our FBI, the Mounties also handle traffic. Today's Mounties fly planes, pilot ships, and drive snowmobiles and cars. A very few ride horses and wear red jackets for special ceremonies, such as the Changing of the Guard Ceremony at the Parliament building in Ottawa, (pictured above).

Canadian Government Office of Tourism.

See the Canadian Indian in ceremonial dress. There are around 200,000 Indians in Canada today.

Indians were the first Canadians. The name "Canada" comes from an Indian word. Today, 75 out of every 100 Indians live on 2,200 reserves or special lands set aside for them. The Indians are hunters, guides and farmers. Other Indians live in cities.

Canadian kids watch a lot of TV, including some American shows, such as "Sesame Street," "The Electric Co." and "Mash."

They dress like we do. Jeans are just as popular there as they are here.

They like to eat the food we eat. Hot dogs and hamburgers are favorites.

Their weather is much like that of the northern U.S. They also have four seasons. It snows a lot in some areas.

They like football, soccer, baseball and other sports that we like.

In some ways, the Canadians are different.

Some of the kids next door are Eskimos (or Inuits as they are called in their native language). Inuits live in houses equipped with many of the electrical appliances that your family has. Most dogsleds have been replaced by snowmobiles and airplanes.

At one time, Canada was a colony belonging to Britain. Today she is independent and governs herself. Queen Elizabeth II is the ceremonial head of the government.

The Canadians call the head of the government the prime minister and not the president.

Canadians do not live in "states." Their country is divided into 10 provinces and two territories. The territories are huge stretches of land close to the Arctic. Not many people live in this part of Canada.

Canada has more land than the U.S., but only a tenth as many people.

Maybe someday you will get to visit the kids next door.

Look carefully and you will see a bilingual Little League sign (petites ligues). Bilingual means "in two languages."

Many Canadian kids speak French as well as English. They might study both languages in school. Some speak only French. Most speak English. For 30 percent of Canadians, French is the "mother tongue" or the language they learn first.

Karsh, Ottawa

The head of the government is Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

The Canadian flag.

Would you like to learn some words in French?

Baseball words:
le lanceur—the pitcher
un circuit—a home run
le primer but—the first base

Count to ten:

un—one deux—two trois—three quatre—four cinq—five six—six sept—seven huit—eight neuf—nine dix—ten

Beavers live in water.
They use their tails as paddles.

The beaver is an unofficial symbol of Canada.

Beavers slap their tails against the water to warn of danger.

They have long front teeth that keep growing all their lives.

They gnaw down trees to build homes and dams and to get food. Beavers eat twigs, leaves and bark.

Hockey Heroes: Canada's Super Sports

Ken Dryden, goaltender for the Montreal Canadians.

One small player's mother would spread newspapers out on the kitchen floor so her son could eat his lunch with his hockey skates on.

Some parents sit shivering at outdoor rinks where the temperature is 40 degrees below, watching their kids learn to play the game that might win them fame and fortune.

Many boys and some girls dream of playing the game. It's Canada's most important sport. Some players are better known than the prime minister.

Cool Canadian Pastimes!

"Tire" (terrx-a) is a French-Canadian name for a maple syrup treat. In the early spring, when the sap begins to run, trees are tapped and the sap drained, just like it was done 200 years ago. The sap is boiled in big pots and poured into pans of clean white snow. This little girl is eating the syrup off a lollipop stick!

Some people claim that more snow falls on Canada in the wintertime than in any other country in the world! Snowmobiles are used for fun. They are also important ways to travel in some parts of the country. The first snowmobile was built by a Canadian in 1922.

Curling is a winter sports that is very much like shuffleboard. The game is played on ice. The object of the game is to slide a 40-pound stone the length of a long court and to get it in the right circle. People carrying brooms sweep the ice in front to help guide it to the best spot. Players wear warm boots, not skates.

Cancer drive doubles goal

LILBOURN— Contributions totaling $11,183.64, which more than doubled the set goal of $5,500, were received in the 1976 fund crusade by the New Madrid County unit of the American Cancer Society, according to Mrs. Mattie Gruen of Matthews, unit treasurer.

Mrs. Gruen noted that nearly half of the total — $5,514.19 — was raised by special events of bike-a-thons and a roadblock. Memorial donations totaled $3,533.50, and other sources and amounts included: residential, $1,106.89; businesses, $502; Mouse to College for Research Program by school children, $264.06; buckboards, $24; clubs and organizatins, $35; community fund, $200; and coin box collection, $4.

Crusade chairwoman Jeanette Haubold of Marston, unit president Bill Jones of Lilbourn and the other unit volunteers have expressed their gratitude for the generous donations and to those who helped, especially the young people, to make the drive so successful this year.

Excluding memorials, contrivutions by towns were reported as follows: Catron, $62.50; Canalou, $155.63; Delmo project, $9.26; Gideon, $200; Lilbourn, $1,673.42; Marston, $569.31; Matthews, $431.57; Morehouse, $264.94; New Madrid, $100; Parma, $2,463.55; Portageville, $1,465.81; and Risco, $254.45.

Officers re-elected for 1976-77 are: Jones, president; Grayce Alexander of Portageville, vice president; Mrs. Delbert Edgar of Portageville, secretary; Mrs. Gruen, treasurer; and Mrs. Barbara Stoffer, New Madrid, memorial chairman.

SeMo U to sponsor course at New Madrid Area Skills Center

NEW MADRID— The industrial and technical education department at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau will offer a course during the fall semester at the New Madrid Area Skills Center in New Madrid, according to Dr. Bryce March, the department chairman at the university.

The organizational meeting for the course, Vocational Guidance, is scheduled from 6 to 9 p.m. Aug. 30 at New Madrid, with Dr. Robert L. Cox, associate professor of industrial and technical education as the instructor. The course is available for three semester hours of undergraduate or graduate credit. At least 17 students must enroll in the course for it to materialize.

There is no charge to instructional or administrative personnel who teach or administer approved vocational programs and whose salaries are partially reimbursed from state of federal vocational or Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds.

The charge to other students will be $18 per semester hour or $54 for the three-hour course. Textbooks are provided at no charge.

Sam Bodine, director of vocational education at the New Madrid Area Skills Center, is assisting with arrangements.

Area schools receive 'AA' rating from state

RISCO— Many of Missouri's public schools are making genuine progress toward improving their instructional programs and accreditation ratings

A review of the school classification and accreditation program by the State Board of Education at its June meeting June 25 revealed that 39 high school districts raised their classification during the past year. Six went from "AA" top "AAA" and 33 districts moved from "A" to "AA" ratings.

Another 70 high school districts now rated "A" are expected to reach the "AA" classification during the next two years. This would leave only 46 high school districts — enrolling less than one percent of the state's students — in district rated below "AA."

The State Board of Education adopted higher standards for the classification program in 1974, giving the schools until July, 1978, to comply

Presently, after two years in the new program, 94 per cent of the state's more than one million public school students are enrolled in "AA" and "AAA" schools.

Generally, the schools attaining a higher classification made major improvements in three areas: broader curricular offerings, improved library services, and expanded guidance and counseling services. For example, underthe old standards, an "A" district had to offer it students only 24½ curriculum units. Now an "AA" school must offer a minimum of 40 ½ units with most of the increase in vocational subjects.

School districts improving their classifications include:

To an "AA" rating: Neelyville in Butler County; Clarkton in Dunklin County; and Risco in New Madrid County.

DEAR HELOISE:
Here is an idea to help a group of people to get to know each other, and provide some fun and laughs at the same time.

When inviting people to a gathering, ask them to bring a snapshot or photo of themselves when a child or baby.

Provide pin-on name tags so everyone will know each other's names, then pin the pictures each one brings onto a bulletin board. Number each picture and let each guest have a turn going up to this display and writing down the number under the picture and the name of the person he THINKS it is.

This is a wonderful "ice-breaker" and people really remember the names and faces that go with the pictures.

Mary Layman

Sounds like a lot of fun — 'twould get any party off to a good start, I betcha.

You've come up with a clever cutie, Mary. We all say thanks.

HAIR'S TO YOU!

DEAR HELOISE:

Some hair clasps will not stay in place in your hair, but slide slowly down...

Just take your bottle of white liquid glue and place a little bead of glue down the inside of the clasp... then place a strip of wide rubber band along the length of the glue. Press into place and presto! Hair clasps that stay put!

Be sure to cut the straight portions of the rubber band to glue on the clasp, and discard the curved ends as they just will not lie straight.

Linda Turner

ON THE GRILL

DEAR HELOISE:

This evening I barbecued some hamburger steaks. While the coals were still hot, I barbecued enough for another meal as well.

After the meat had cooled, I wrapped it in foil and put it in the freezer for later use. Sure comes in handy sometimes when I am in a hurry. Just reheat in the same piece of foil.

Mrs. Harold Haynes

JUST A SPRAY

DEAR HELOISE:

I put the sprayer from an empty glass cleaner bottle on my rubbing alcohol bottle and it works marvelously.

No more sloshing, and the fine spray is not such a jolt on my skin as a handful of cold alcohol.

Margaret Muders

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:

Keeping cat and dog hair off furniture is best done by training pets to stay off such places.

A few hours taken when a pet first becomes a resident to patiently teach the rules of the house, pays off in the long run.

It can even earn the respect of guests who are not tolerant of pets at any time.

Christine Bunker

WOODEN YOU KNOW?

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have a dress or something similar that you want to keep off the floor so it will stay clean, just do this to the hanger.

Get two colors of yarn, such as the yarn used for hair ribbons.

Then take a wooden coat hanger and wind the yarn around it. Hang your dress on it and it won't slip off and fall on the floor.

Jane Campbell

FLAT OUT TIP

DEAR HELOISE:

Why don't people flatten paper milk cartons, egg cartons, and boxes, etc., before throwing them into the wastebasket?

If one does this, so much more will go into one plastic disposal bag.

Helen Bunten

LOST AND FOUND

DEAR HELOISE:

I wear reading glasses and am forever putting them on and taking them off. Consequently, I carry my glass case with me.

After losing one case, I decided to put my business card into my new case.

Now, if I leave my case somewhere, with or without glasses, I at least have hopes of getting it back.

Helen Zulas

WHO'S BEEN SEWING?

DEAR HELOISE:

As I am a seamstress, I bought one of those three-tiered plastic vegetable bins to use at the right side of my sewing machine.

The lowest bin I use for patterns until they are no longer needed. The second bin holds spools of thread and the top one I use for various tapes, elastic, measuring tape, bobbin box, pincushions, etc.

The holes on the four corners holds different sized scissors. Everything I need is at my fingertips — saves many steps.

Mrs. H.

ASK THE CHEF!

DEAR HELOISE:

I've brightened up my kitchen with a little inexpensive picture which has turned into a useful stand for recipe cards.

I used a 3x5 frame and a picture easel, adding a note card I had received, which happened to match the colors in my kitchen. Any kind of picture or photograph would do.

When I cook, I just prop the recipe card in front of the picture and, when not in use, it makes a very attractive accessory.

Martha Kirby

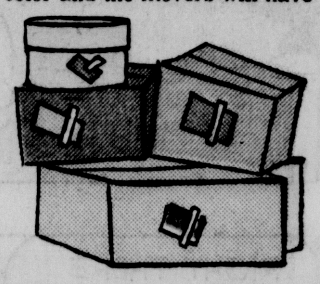

IT'S MOVING DAY

DEAR HELOISE:

Moving can be fun.

Buy multicolored construction paper and assign one color to each room of the new dwelling.

Tape or staple cuttings of pink for example to each box, piece of furniture, etc., that will go into the new bedroom. Mark the new room with the same color and the movers will have no trouble putting things into the right place.

The whole family can join and mark their belongings way ahead.

Takes a lot of weariness out of moving day.

I put the sprayer from an empty glass cleaner bottle on my rubbing alcohol bottle and it works marvelously.

No more sloshing, and the fine spray is not such a jolt on my skin as a handful of cold alcohol.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:

Keeping cat and dog hair off furniture is best done by training pets to stay off such places.

A few hours taken when a pet first becomes a resident to patiently teach the rules of the house, pays off in the long run.

It can even earn the respect of guests who are not tolerant of pets at any time.

Christine Bunker

WOODEN YOU KNOW?

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have a dress or something similar that you want to keep off the floor so it will stay clean, just do this to the hanger.

Get two colors of yarn, such as the yarn used for hair ribbons.

Then take a wooden coat hanger and wind the yarn around it. Hang your dress on it and it won't slip off and fall on the floor.

FLAT OUT TIP

DEAR HELOISE:

Why don't people flatten paper milk cartons, egg cartons, and boxes, etc., before throwing them into the wastebasket?

If one does this, so much more will go into one plastic disposal bag.

Helen Bunten

LOST AND FOUND

DEAR HELOISE:

I wear reading glasses and am forever putting them on and taking them off. Consequently, I carry my glass case with me.

After losing one case, I decided to put my business card into my new case.

Now, if I leave my case somewhere, with or without glasses, I at least have hopes of getting it back.

Helen Zulas

WHO'S BEEN SEWING?

DEAR HELOISE:

As I am a seamstress, I bought one of those three-tiered plastic vegetable bins to use at the right side of my sewing machine.

The lowest bin I use for patterns until they are no longer needed. The second bin holds spools of thread and the top one I use for various tapes, elastic, measuring tape, bobbin box, pincushions, etc.

The holes on the four corners holds different sized scissors. Everything I need is at my fingertips — saves many steps.

ASK THE CHEF!

DEAR HELOISE:

I've brightened up my kitchen with a little inexpensive picture which has turned into a useful stand for recipe cards.

I used a 3x5 frame and a picture easel, adding a note card I had received, which happened to match the colors in my kitchen. Any kind of picture or photograph would do.

When I cook, I just prop the recipe card in front of the picture and, when not in use, it makes a very attractive accessory.

IT'S MOVING DAY

DEAR HELOISE:

Moving can be fun.

Buy multicolored construction paper and assign one color to each room of the new dwelling.

Tape or staple cuttings of pink for example to each box, piece of furniture, etc., that will go into the new bedroom. Mark the new room with the same color and the movers will have no trouble putting things into the right place.

The whole family can join and mark their belongings way ahead.

Takes a lot of weariness out of moving day.

Erika

Some people do things the hard way, and then there's you.

As many times as I have moved, I never thought of this slick trick. You sure have your brain in gear.

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. Apron is different. 2. Golf club is different. 3. Car hood is closed. 4. Doormat is missing. 5. Strap is different. 6. Hands are reversed.

BULLETIN BOARD

SEEING'S believing, 'tis said. If you want to see some optical magic, gaze at the above design for a half minute or more. At one time it will appear to be resting on its side. At another time it will appear to stand on end. At still another time it will seem to be resting on one side with one leg in air.

It's an intriguing optical illusion, of course, that seems to change form and direction before your eyes.

Just for fun, see if you can cause it to alter appearance by shading one or more sides with a soft lead pencil or crayon.

●KID STUFF! "How beautiful is ____ ! How bright it gleams. With its illusions, aspirations, dreams!" —Longfellow. Fill blank.

The missing word is "youth."

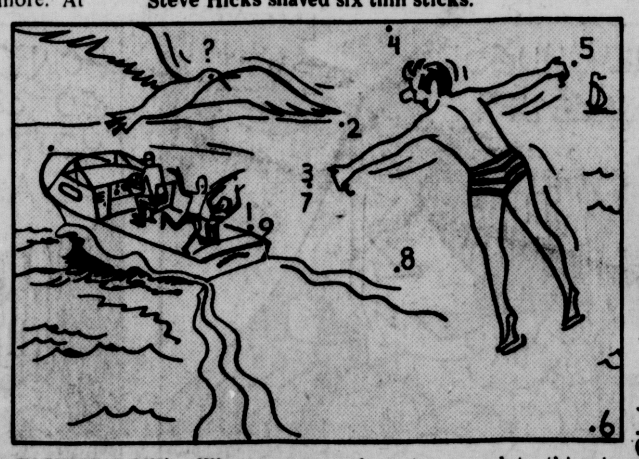

●Eleven fenceposts stand on each side of a square plot. Two are added for a gate. How many fenceposts are there in all?

Forty-two.

●Word Test: Change a SHARK into a WHALE in three steps, subbing one letter in each step. Time limit: one minute.

Shark, share, shale, Whale.

●Tongue Testers! Repeat several times as rapidly as you can: Tim Smith the tinsmith tinned tin. Stout Steve Hicks shaved six thin sticks.

FLYING LOW! What can you draw to complete this picture? To find out, add connecting lines from dot to dot.
